A. T. & T. Ready To Bargain After U. S. Gesture at Rates

Pressure Reported To Make Pay Offer

WASHINGTON, April 24—(UP)—The American Telephone & Telegraph Company, reportedly under Government pressure to offer wage increases to its striking employees, agreed Thursday night to reopen the stalled telephone strike negotiations here Friday.

The company gave no hint that it was ready to accede to union demands for an immediate "down payment" wage boost to end the 18-day-old national strike.

But its willingness to resume collective bargaining on behalf of its long lines division was the first definitely optimistic development since the negotiations broke down almost two weeks ago.

Representatives of the Atlanta Industrial Unions, made up of representatives of all local branches of the CIO, have voted full co-operation with Atlanta's striking telephone workers, Charles H. Gillman, Atlanta head of the CIO, has announced. The Industrial Union also voted to donate $140 to the phone workers and dispatched a letter to all local unions asking for contributions.

Government officials were hopeful that a settlement of the long lines dispute would set a pattern for an over-all agreement covering all 340,000 striking employees of A. T. & T. and its subsidiary Bell System companies throughout the country.

Labor Department spokesmen said A. T. & T. negotiators would meet with leaders of the striking National Federation of Telephone Workers at 11 a. m. Friday.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company also has accepted a Government invitation to reopen negotiations, but has not set a definite date and has stated that it will not offer a wage increase when it does resume bargaining.

A third Bell System unit, the Western Electric Company, has been invited to the union-management conference, but Government spokesmen said no reply had been received up to the time A. T. & T. announced its acceptance.

A. T. & T.'s decision to reopen negotiations came after a series of highly secret meetings in New York between company and Government officials, at which the

JOHN I. KELLEY
Named Solicitor.

John Kelley Appointed Solicitor

John I. Kelley, Atlanta lawyer, will be sworn in at 9 a. m. Monday as Solicitor of the Criminal Court of Fulton County, succeeding the late Lindley Camp who died in an air crash Tuesday.

Acting Gov. Thompson announced his appointment Thursday night following funeral services for Mr. Camp.

When he takes the oath of office, the 55-year-old Kelley will return to public office for the first time since 1943 when he resigned as Assistant Attorney General, having served under Attys. Gen. Lawrence S. Camp and M. J. Yeomans during the gubernatorial administration of Sen. Russell.

In the 1932 Democratic Primary, Kelley was a candidate for Governor in a field composed of Eugene Talmadge, who was nominated, Abit Nix, John N. Holder, H. B. Edwards, Thomas W. Hardwick, Hoke O'Kelly and F. B. Summers.

Kelley polled 12,115 votes and carried his home county, Gwinnett, a four-unit county.

He resigned as Assistant Attorney General at the end of Gov. Russell's term and entered the private practice of law here. Kelley now is senior member of the firm of Kelley, Hardwick and Coogler with offices in the Hurt Building.

Prior to his service with the State Law Department, Kelley was a member of the General Assembly from Gwinnett County, where he also engaged in the practice of law. He was a member of the House in 1925 and 1926 and a State Senator in 1927.

As an Assistant Attorney General, he played a prominent part in the return of Robert Elliot Burns, notorious New Jersey fugitive from Georgia's penal system.

He served on an advisory State agency, the State Monument and Memorial Commission from Jan. 3, 1933 to Dec. 31, 1935.

Kelley is a veteran of World War I, having served in the 325th Infantry Regiment, 82nd Division. He is married, has three children and lives at 2543 Habersham Rd., Northwest.

Camp's unexpired term amounts to approximately five years and seven months. The position pays $10,000 annually and its holder may continue the private practice of law.

Clapp Okayed for TVA Post

WASHINGTON, April 24—(AP)—The Senate by a vote of 36 to 31 Thursday confirmed Gordon R. Clapp as Chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority despite a last ditch fight by Sen. McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, who complained his feelings were being "hurt."

It was the second defeat within recent weeks for McKellar, 78-year-old Sente dean. Over his vehement objections the Senate confirmed David E. Lilienthal, Clapp's predecessor as TVA head, to be Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Georgia's Sen. George voted against the confirmation. Sen. Russell was paired, voting for as Sen. Taft voted against.

In striped trousers and black coat, McKellar strode up and down a Senate aisle declaring TVA was full of Communists. Referring to the Lilienthal vote and the forthcoming Clapp vote, McKellar said:

"I have never been more hurt."

He said his views were being ignored even though TVA has headquarters in Tennessee.

"He (Clapp) may be a nice, young man," said the Senator. "He would make a splendid clerk in a grocery store or in a meat shop.

"He knows nothing whatsoever about making policies. He's been Mr. Lilienthal's stooge since he has been there. He will be Mr. Lilienthal's stooge as long as he is there.

"Now if that's what the Senate

Greek Army Reported Battling 1,000 Rebels In Rugged Stronghold

ATHENS, Greece, April 24—(UP)—Press dispatches said Thursday the "biggest battle of the year" was being fought along the rugged sides of Orthris Mountain between Greek Army forces, supported by planes, tanks and artillery, and 1,000 guerillas under the personal command of the top rebel chieftain.

Napoleon Zervas, Minister of Public Order, announced Wednesday night that a company of Greek gendarmerie was fighting a Leftist band of 300 men at Agriana, near Sparta. Unofficial estimates of casualties in this engagement were 90, but official quarters believed the figure too high.

The Orthris Mountain battle, according to dispatches, started Wednesday morning when Greek regulars of the First and Second Corps brought to bay the guerrillas, under "Gen. Markos" Vlfiades.

With planes, tanks and artillery, the Greek regulars were said to be driving the guerrillas up the sides of the mountain.

Priest's Assailant Talks, But Not on Stabbing

NEW ORLEANS, April 24—(UP)—Don L. Laurentz got his voice back Thursday but still refused to tell police why he stabbed a Jesuit priest at High Mass in a downtown New Orleans church last Sunday.

The 27-year-old Texan fell into stubborn silence after slashing the Rev. Fr. James Courtney at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

But Thursday, he said, he woke up and said "hello" to himself—"and the words came out." Father Courtney was reported "doing fine" at Mercy Hospital, but still was not permitted to talk.

"I still have my reason (for the stabbing)" Laurentz said, "but I don't want to tell it yet."

1 Killed, 11 Trapped in Canadian Mine Mishap

MALARTIC, Quebec, April 24—(AP)—Fire in the No. 4 shaft of the rich east Malartic gold mine Thursday took the life of one hard-rock miner and trapped 11 others far below ground. Four men made their way to safety.

Hours after the blaze started, rescue squads, equipped with special mine fire-fighting apparatus reported little headway in their efforts to reach the 11.

Father Gerard Kinlough, who had been on the scene since 3 a. m. (EST), said he was hopeful the trapped men had been able to escape from the smoke to a lower mine level.

Rumor British Dissolution of Jewish Agency

JERUSALEM, April 24—(AP)—Sir Henry Gurney, Chief Secretary for Palestine, summoned Mrs. Golda Myerson, Political Chief of the Jewish Agency in Jerusalem, to a government house conference Thursday amid persistent rumors that the British were considering dissolution of the Agency. No official announcement was issued on the subject of the discussion.

Palestine was quiet during the day, except for a bank robbery at Affulah in the North where three men dressed in police uniform held up the Farmers' Bank and escaped by car with $2,200 in cash. Security measures were tightened in the area after the robbery. In Jerusalem troops continued checking identities of pedestrians and searched a few cars on the streets.

May Defense Threatens To Involve 'High' Officials

WASHINGTON, April 24—(INS)—A defense attorney threatened Thursday to call "high" Democratic officials, including members of Congress, to prove that $2,000 received by former Rep. May, Democrat, Kentucky, was a political contribution in the 1944 Presidential campaign.

Sawyer Smith, attorney for May, told a jury in the corruption trial of the ex-Congressman that he was prepared to disclose the identity of the men who handled the money, some of them high officials and in Congress. He added that he would call them as witnesses if necessary.

The Government charged that May received the money in two $1,000 checks for trying to get better Army assignments for the soldier son of Joseph Freeman, one of the four defendants.

The other defendants are Henry M. Garsson and his brother, Murray, heads of a fabulous munitions combine.

'ZAWADA, ZAWADA,' CRIES PARROT; MISTRESS RECOGNIZES HER LOST PET

BERLIN—(NANA)—"Zawada," screamed a colorful parrot in the zoo here recently, "Zawada, Zawada, Zawada!" The crowd gathered around and wondered if the cry meant anything.

Suddenly from out of the crowd dashed a 38-year-old refugee, Elsa Zawada. "Lori, Lori," she called, "Lori, my dear little bird, now I've found you."

She had lost her pet on her flight from East Prussia in 1944. The bird had recognized her.

Although she also had been able to identify the parrot by a scar on the left wing, she was not able to have him, since, as a refugee, she has no place to keep him.

The zoo has agreed to keep the parrot until such a time as his mistress is able to feed and house him.

Mayor Revokes Permits Of 2 'Hazardous' Hotels

Mayor Hartsfield threw the weight of his executive power behind Atlanta's fire prevention efforts Thursday as he approved City Council's action this week revoking the operating permits of the Pickwick and Plaza Hotels. The hotels were charged with maintaining alleged fire hazards.

And, even as the Mayor signed the revocation order, the Fulton County Grand Jury stepped into the campaign to make sure municipal authorities were enforcing laws passed as an aftermath of the Winecoff Hotel fire in which 119 persons lost their lives last December.

Council had revoked the permits of the 10-story Pickwick Hotel at 133 Fairlie St., N. W., and the three-story Plaza at 5-A Journal Way on recommendation of the Police Committee after Building Inspector Marvin Harper charged the Pickwick with 19 safety code violations and the Plaza with 17 infractions.

In signing the order, Hartsfield asked police officials to give permanent residents of the Pickwick and Plaza up to 30 days to find other living quarters. Normally the revocations would be

80-Degree High Slated, Showers Due Saturday

The forecast for the Atlanta area today is partly cloudy and continued warm, followed by considerable cloudiness and slightly cooler with occasional showers Saturday. Today's expected high and low temperatures are 80 and 62 degrees, followed by a high of 74 Saturday.

Thursday's extremes were 79 and 59 degrees.

General Motors, UAW Reach Wage Accord

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The wage dispute involving 220,000 General Motors workers was settled Thursday night, shortly after an announcement from the widespread labor front told of the reaching of a second steel agreement.

The auto labor dispute was settled on the basis of an 11½-cent hourly increase, as the way was pointed to the auto industry's new pay pattern for 1947.

General Motors and the CIO-United Auto Workers came to an agreement with dramatic suddenness after an hours-long negotiation session from which emerged the likely wage structure for a half-million men in the nation's car factories.

Major points covered in the agreement as announced by UAW President Walter P. Reuther, chief negotiator for the Union, and Louis G. Seaton, Director of Labor Relations for the Corporation, included:

1. An 11½-cent hourly increase to take effect as of Thursday, subject to the Union's ratification by May 5.

Ratification was expected to be a mere formality in view of the Union negotiators' recommendation for approval.

2. Six paid holidays for "seniority employees" — those with six months' seniority on the job.

This represents the 3½ cents an hour by Company estimate which General Motors said made the total increase the "equivalent" of 15 cents an hour.

3. An improved vacation program and a liberalized "call-in pay" system.

Earlier, CIO United Auto Workers closed down the major part of Detroit's industrial plant to participate in a mass demonstration against labor-restricting legislation before Congress.

The CIO Wayne Council estimated at least 250,000 CIO workers left their benches en masse at 2 p. m.

In terms of dollars and cents, the walkout cost workers more than $1,000,000, and "many millions" in production were lost, according to the Automobile Manufacturers' Association.

Other estimates of the number immobilized by the walkout ranged as high as one-half million.

The rally ended with a march on the Michigan Bell Telephone Company's main building, a few blocks away. Union members augmented striking telephone workers on the picket line.

For the most part, UAW workers ignored contract commitments and walked out in a body at the various Detroit auto plants. Spokesmen for the Auto Manufacturers' Association characterized the walkout as "100 percent effective."

At least 35,000 Ford workers fell in line and other thousands were forced to leave their jobs as assembly lines halted. The Hudson plant was closed completely, but some General Motors operations continued with skeleton staffs.

These were the day's other major labor developments:

1—On the heels of a contract signed by the U. S. Steel Corporation and the CIO Steel Workers, the Bethlehem Steel Company announced an agreement had been reached on "all main points" with its 70,000 workers.

2—The striking telephone workers received a $100,000 check

83 MILLION CUPS OF COFFEE TO DUNK FROWNS

Minds Mull Over Morning Mud

CHICAGO, April 24—(UP)—The great minds of a $50,000,000-a-year industry got together Thursday to solve a problem that has bothered man, and housewives, for 900 years—how to make a good "cupacawffee."

The experts said they didn't know why many housewives and restaurant chefs sometimes brew coffee that tastes like mud. But, they warned, the situation could be pretty serious, might even have an effect on the whole nation.

The U. S. consumes 90,000,000,000 cups of Java every year, about 83,000,000 cups every morning. Imagine 83,000,000 persons starting out the day with a frown because their coffee wasn't brewed properly.

"Terrible," the experts said. "We're going to do something about it."

They met at the Blackstone Hotel, starting a six-month scientific study of the problem. There were John W. Ebersole, White Plains, N. Y., President of the National Restaurant Association; J. Rosenthal, New York City, Executive Director of the Coffee Advertising Council; William E. Waldschmidt, Chicago, representing the National Coffee Association; R. G. Peterson, Chicago, of the National Restaurant Association, and other experts and advisers.

Waldschmidt said coffee has been percolating for 900 years and that no real effort has been made to give customers the kind of brew they want.

"Now we must concentrate on quality, as well as quantity," he said.

He said the customers who drank 18,000,000,000 cups of coffee in restaurants and drugstores last year deserved better treatment.

Agents will be sent into homes to bring about improvement of the 72,000,000,000 cups of Java that are made at home every year.

"Our study should uncover what is wrong with both," he said. "Maybe we'll find a new kind of pot that will make coffee faster, cheaper and tastier."

He said scientists would be hired to experiment with all sorts of coffee urns and pots.

When will the report be forthcoming?

"Maybe in six months," he said. "We'll report from time to time."

62 Dead Or Lost in Gale; Warspite Impaled

LONDON, April 24—(AP)—A violent four-day gale subsided somewhat Thursday night, leaving the veteran battleship Warspite impaled on the rocks of the Cornish Coast and at least 62 men dead or missing in the wrecks of other ships.

The gravest tragedy befell the British tanker Samtampa, whose breakup on the Welsh Coast line Wednesday night probably cost the lives of 40 of her crew and eight lifeboat men who tried to aid her. Unrecognizable from a battering on the rocks, the oil-coated bodies of 22 of the Santampa victims were washed up on the beach. All 48 were believed to have perished.

The wrecked tanker, a 7,219-ton lend-lease contribution to the British war fleet, lay in three pieces a stone's throw from shore. Near by, cradled on rocks, was the capsized lifeboat that put out through 50-foot waves in the most gallant traditions of rescue.

The second heaviest toll was in the loss of the Spanish trawler Rosa Maria. Her crew of 12 was believed to have perished off Fastnet, Eire. A sister ship also was reported sunk by winds which reached 100 miles an hour.

The 31,000-ton Warspite, a survivor of two world wars, was making her last voyage to the junkyard when she fell victim to the treacherous coast off Cornwall.

Her last crew, eight men who escaped to safety, predicted she would have to be scrapped where she lay.

The 35,677-ton liner Mauretania docked in Liverpool after being held up four days. The vessel had gone out on a trial run with 400 guests preparatory to rejoining the New York passenger service Saturday.

Several vessels still were in trouble. Nearing the English Coast the 1,117-ton American tug Faralon, her navigation aids smashed and her master injured, radioed for a pilot boat to lead her into Plymouth.

The 7,181-ton American freighter Robert H. Harrison, which dropped a propellor in the Atlantic, was under tow for Liverpool.

One man died from exposure when the fishing trawler Benghazi went aground off Scotlanud.

A Navy officer was missing in an 18-foot yacht off the East Coast of England.

"The Warspite is now where most admirals like to be when they have finished their job—buried at sea," said one Coastguardsman.

The 34-year-old battleship had her share of scrapes in a long and adventurous career. In the Battle of Jutland in World War I her steering gear jammed and she made two complete circles in front of the German fleet. She took 31 shells from the enemy, but reached port safely.

In World War II she took a direct hit from a German radio-controlled bomb during the Salerno landing and had to be towed nearly 1,000 miles to a repair yard.

Her list of battles in World War II included Narvik, Calabria, Capuzzo, Valona, Bardia, Matapan, Tripoli and Crete, and she was present at actions around Madagascar, Sicily, Normandy, Brest, Walcheren and Le Havre.

8 Methodist Pastors Pledge Aid To Raise Funds for Streptomycin

Spurred by the action of the Men's Bible Class of Cornelia Methodist Church, eight prominent Methodist ministers Thursday offered their influence to raise money to provide streptomycin to needy Georgians suffering from tuberculosis.

The Bible group of the North Georgia Church, led by the Rev. Allen A. Phillips, Pastor, pledged funds to supply the expensive white drug, a potent new weapon against tuberculosis, for one patient's treatment at Battey State Hospital. Their offer was dispatched to Miss Margaret Stillman, Executive Secretary of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association, following an account of the need for streptomycin which appeared in The Constitution last Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Phillips wrote Miss Stillman he had received assurances of leadership within their congregations and communities from the Rev. Pierce Harris, First Methodist Church, Atlanta; the Rev. Frank B. Pim, of Rome; the Rev. Claude Hendrick, of Newnan; the Rev. J. Foster Young, of Cedartown; the Rev. M. M. Whittemore, of Athens; the Rev. A. D. Whittemore, of Dalton; the Rev. T. H. Whellis, of Clayton, and the Rev. R. B. Hays, of Buford.

"My own interest in the fight against tuberculosis," wrote the Rev. Mr. Phillips, "began two years ago when I was privileged to work with the patients at Alto Sanatorium. It has been a pleasure to reach Methodist ministers throughout the State to ask their help in this worthy cause."

The church action came simultaneously with a report by the various local welfare agencies that tuberculous Georgians and their desperate families literally were pounding on their doors for the promised drug, but were being turned away because there was no money to buy the expensive medicine.

The welfare agencies have agreed that funds for the drug should come from the State and until State funds are available, have made tentative plans for a public money-raising campaign to aid emergency cases.

DORIS LOCKERMAN

Let's See Now . . .

Good posture helps. A graceful walk is an aid. But the real test of a glamorous woman is whether she knows how and when to keep her mouth shut. Miss Loren Walters, Director of the American Academy of Fashion Modeling here, revealed that rule-of-thumb to the Junior Chamber of Commerce Friday. The Jaycees gave Miss Walters a loud round of applause, a fervent invitation to return.

ART SCHOLARSHIPS

Those double-jointed scarecrows and chuffing freight trains the kiddies draw in their spare time aren't too solid proof of talent . . . unless they continue past eight years old. Almost every youngster is creative up to that age, and all of them have a latent color sense. If they keep drawing after nine or so in spite of social restrictions and regimentation, they may be truly creative.

The High Museum of Art is looking for the boy and girl in Georgia who kept up that early sketching and have turned it into a determined evidence of talent. They offer scholarships to the two most promising contestants, providing a year's tuition in their flourishing art school as a prize. Robert S. Rogers, Director of the school, says almost every one of the 36 scholarship students the Museum has had in these 18 years now has a profitable job. "And tell them," said Rogers, "that we judge them on creativeness and a kind of stimulating excitement in their drawings more than on their accuracy of line."

PACKAGED MELODY

Among the music-minded public, the Membership Series of the Atlanta Music Club is the little savory fillip topping off the very satisfying musical feast of the All-Star Series. The Membership program presents exquisite musicians of the highly specialized and somewhat remote type whose appeal is chiefly to extremely discriminating audiences.

Next year, for example, the Membership group will hear Giomar Novaes, a brilliant woman Brazilian pianist; Jennie Tourel, soprano recitalist; the Griller String Quartet, emphasizing chamber music; and a joint recital of Rulodf Serkin, pianist, and Adolph Busch, violinist.

Mrs. Thad Morrison and her committee are accepting reservations and renewals through April at Cable Piano Company, 235 Peachtree St., N. E. Memberships entitle holders to the Informal Series at the Woman's Club, the Young Artists Series, the Student Concert Guild, and the Junior Music Division . . . a very complete package of melody.

YOU ARE MY SUNSHINE

Wesleyan College at Macon is braced for a two-day Spring Festival and, the grapevine has it, the function has threatened to cut a mean measure with the classic sanctuary of music which is the old Conservatory. The event will be keynoted by a hoe-down, with a radio hillbilly and his tribe of plaintive balladeers headlining the initial entertainment. Students have written home, sotto voce, that they are thrilled to death, but wonder about the old masters. What old master could resist "You Are My Sunshine" and "The Letter Edged in Black"?

Ex-OPA Official, 5 Others Draw Federal Sentences

Frank B. Holt, of Baxley, former Atlanta OPA official, and five other Georgians recently convicted of conspiracy to violate the Second War Powers Act through large-scale operations in stolen sugar and gasoline ration coupons, drew prison sentences and stiff fines from U. S. District Judge Robert L. Russell here Thursday.

Holt and another former OPA employee, John H. Miller, of Conyers, were each sentenced to two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine. Others sentenced were:

Floyd Cullins, of 50 Willowwood Circle, S. E., two years and $5,000 fine; Frank Cullins, of 208 Berean Ave., S. E., a year and a day and $2,000 fine; Louis Nelson, of 846 Ponce de Leon Terrace, N. E., a year and a day and $1,000 fine, and Jerry Reeves, of 367 Park Ave., S. E., four months and $500 fine.

Counsel for Frank Cullins said the Atlantan, who made a plea for leniency before sentence was passed, will appeal his case. Imposition of sentences were deferred two weeks on execution of bonds totaling $57,000 for the six.

$250,000 Gym for Emory Nears Construction Start

Construction of a combination field house and gymnasium for Emory University, at an estimated cost of $250,000, will begin soon, Dr. Goodrich C. White, President of Emory, said Thursday.

The building, to be constructed of steel and concrete block, will be located adjacent to the University's two athletic fields and near the dormitories.

Dr. White termed the proposed gymnasium "one of our most critical needs."

A "temporary" athletic shell, used for indoor sports at Emory for more than a quarter of a century, was condemned several months ago, and the University's athletic program has been severely handicapped by lack of facilities, the Emory President explained.

The new building, 140 by 260 feet, will house three basketball courts, an indoor swimming pool, exercise rooms, offices, classrooms, locker space and a laundry.

Dr. White said he hoped actual construction would begin within a month.

The proposed gymnasium will utilize partial prefabrication. It will be constructed around a steel core, to be prefabricated by a Western concern which manufactured B-29 hangars during the war. With modifications worked out by Emory's athletic director, T. E. McDonough, the manufacturer has designed an inner core for the structure which will provide a huge open space, 100 by 154 feet, for the three basketball courts.

The Emory President said the new building would provide unexcelled indoor facilities for basketball, handball, swimming, gymnastics, boxing, wrestling, volley ball and other sports.

It also will be fitted with equipment to allow practice of tennis, golf and other outdoor games.

Architects of the building are Ivey & Crook. Final drawings of the structure's exterior have not been completed.

Dr. White said he hoped the gymnasium would be ready for partial occupancy by the opening of the Fall quarter in October.

TAKING 'MARRIAGE'

Jean Arthur In College

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 24—(INS)—Movie Actress Jean Arthur is serious about the special course she is taking at Stephens College in Columbia.

Jean Arthur

Miss Arthur, it was learned Thursday, has moved from a dormitory which she shared with 22 other students to a Columbia hotel because "noise and confusion" in the dormitory interfered with her studying.

The screen star enrolled at Stephens as a special student taking philosophy, biology, marriage and the home. She expects to complete her work by June.

Airline Accuses Comer War Hero

NEW YORK, April 23—(AP)—A former reservation clerk, described as a war hero with 21 successful missions over Germany, was arraigned in Felony Court Thursday charged with the theft of about $15,000 from Pan American Airways, Inc., by cashing 14 tickets for flights to distant points.

Magistrate Philip Thurston held Larry Stokes, 28, of Comer, Ga., in $1,000 bail after Stokes' attorney said the veteran had been awarded air medals, oak leaf clusters and a purple heart.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Paul F. Reilly told the court that Stokes left the airline last January after being denied a leave of absence, and traveled around the country. When his money was exhausted, Stokes surrendered, Reilly said.

Manila Vice Grows, Says City Newspaper

MANILA, April 24—(AP)—The influential Manila Times declared in a front-page editorial Thursday that "Manila has become an open city once more—an open city for crime."

A number of developments pointed up the Times' warning that "property, even life itself, is not safe" in the war-shattered capital.

City detectives who arrested a former Philippine Army major on 34 embezzlement charges quoted him as saying he gave an American Army lieutenant, then employed by the U. S. Foreign Liquidation Commission, $7,500 to "expedite" purchase of a bloc of surplus jeeps from the FLC.

Rep. Floro Crisologo named five Chinese-owned gambling places and three opium dens as establishments which gave $1,000 weekly to each of three top city officials.

There was no immediate statement from the FLC on the admission of the arrested Philippine officer, who is held on $50,000 bail. FLC earlier said it merely acted as middleman between U. S. Military and the Philippine Surplus Property Commission, and that lack of checking personnel forced it to accept Army inventory statements at face value.

Lorillard To Replace 'The Voice' on Radio

NEW YORK, April 24—(AP)—The option in Frank Sinatra's contract with P. Lorillard & Co. will not be renewed after his June 4 broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System, Lennin & Mitchell, advertising representative for the tobacco company, has announced.

A Summer replacement will take over in June, and a new feature will be presented at the Wednesday night hour in the Autumn.

The discontinuance, the agency said, was due to an "unsatisfactory program rating for the price we were paying for the show."

Cuban Cabinet Faces Non-Confidence Vote

HAVANA, Cuba, April 24—(AP) Opposition Sen. Emilio Nunez Portuondo has introduced into the Cuban Senate a motion of non-confidence in the entire Cabinet of Pres. Grau San Martin.

The motion bore the signatures of 29 Senators—equal to the number of votes necessary for its approval. The date for debate on the motion has not yet been set.

The Government has been under fire recently for its handling of domestic economic problems—particularly price inflation.

Schacht Termed Bomb Plot Chief

STUTTGART, April 24—(AP)—Hjalmar Schacht, German financier, was described by a defense witness at his denazification trial Thursday as the leader of the "civilian side" of the 1944 bomb plot against Adolf Hitler.

Hans Oster, son of a German general hanged for his part in the plot, said his father and Schacht often conferred, and that the financial expert was recognized as in charge of phases not handled by the military men.

Queensberry Spars With Cupid Again

LONDON, April 24—(AP)—The Tenth Marquis of Queensberry, whose grandfather authored the rules of boxing, has been married for the third time. He wed Mrs. Gore Chunn at Caxton Hall Register Office Wednesday.

Lord Queensberry, 51, married Actress Irene Richards in 1917 and divorced her in 1925. He married an artist, Miss Cathleen Mann, in 1926. This marriage was dissolved in 1946.

LABOR LEGISLATION PROTEST—Here is a general view of the crowd which gathered in Detroit's Cadillac Square Thursday as CIO United Auto Workers held a demonstration to protest labor legislation pending in Congress. Car assembly was still.

LABOR

from John L. Lewis, UMW Chief, to bolster their strike, as resumption of peace negotiations awaited acceptance from the Bell System's Long Lines Division and Western Electric Company. The Union and Southwestern Bell agreed to meet with Government conciliators in a new peace effort.

3—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough refunded $2,800,000 of the $3,500,000 contempt fine against the United Mine Workers, but warned the Union the anti-strike injunction still was in force "and can be invoked at any time."

4—In the midst of congressional moves to restrict Union activities, CIO President Philip Murray telegraphed AFL President William Green suggesting that proposals for a possible merger of the two labor organizations be discussed in Washington May 1, and Green accepted.

5—The Justice Department asked the Supreme Court to uphold the validity of the Lea Act under which the Government sought to convict James Caesar Petrillo, President of the AFL American Federation of Musicians. The Government appealed a Chicago District Court ruling holding the Act unconstitutional and dismissing the charge against Petrillo.

PARAGUAYAN SHADES OF MATA HARI!

Enchanting 'Selma the Terrible,' Vanishes, Leaving Rebels Frantic

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 24—(AP) — "Selma the Terrible," enchanting, scandalously dressed Paraguayan government spy, is the object of a frantic search by Paraguayan rebels, dispatches from the border said Thursday.

The dispatches said the lady completed an espionage mission for the government, completely deceiving the Paraguayan rebels in their headquarters at Concepcion, and then disappeared.

Asapress, Brazilian news agency, reported from the Brazilian border town of Ponta Pora:

"There was in this city for a few days a Paraguayan government spy, who mysteriously disappeared, leaving the rebels at Pedro Juan Caballero frantic.

"She was an enchanting woman, always wearing expensive, scandalous dresses.

here in Ponta Pora, she immediately contacted the rebels, becoming the mistress of an important rebel leader who is the best-dressed man on this frontier.

"She used to visit constantly in Ponta Pora telegraph station, talking with the telegrapher and all persons who sent telegrams.

"Selma la Terrible — as the rebels used to call her—was always insisting upon going to Concepcion to have an opportunity to speak over the radio, 'Voice of Victory.' Finally she got permission to speak on the radio. Her speech was censored. However, Selma read the speech as originally written, especially emphasizing 'phrase 16.'

"Sought by the police in order to explain why she disobeyed censors' instructions, Selma was not found in Concepcion, Pedro Juan Caballero or Ponta Pora. Only then did the rebels discover her true mission."

BUT HARD WORKERS

Diplomats No More Just 'Fancy Pants'

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 24 — (AP) Maybe you think all a diplomat must know is:

A—How to look at home in his evening, or work, clothes.

B—How to crook his little finger when drinking tea and stuff.

Actually, the U. S. Foreign Service is one of the toughest jobs in the world, and it has probably the hardest entrance examination.

This opinion comes from Dean Arthur Burns, of the George Washington School of Government.

Burns announced Thursday from June 23 until Sept. 12 his school will give special instruction to about 100 people who want to enter the Foreign Service.

He warned right off: Only bright boys and girls need apply.

For the examination they must take lasts four days and is so difficult that only 14 percent of those who take it pass.

Why is it so tough?

"Because times have changed," Burns told a reporter. "A Foreign Service man now must know a little about everything, and a whole lot about languages, economics and American history."

Along with these changing times has come a change in the type of person going into foreign service.

It used to be hereditary, almost. The child was born. Parents saw right off he was Foreign Service caliber. Fancy prep school. Correct Eastern college.

And now?

"We get them from all over the country," said Burns. "Last year was the first time we ever taught this type of refresher course.

"All of them were former GIs, from buck privates to colonels. Our star pupil came from Iowa. The runner-up was from Colorado."

Burns said most of these never thought of foreign service until they got into the Army or Navy.

"One fellow will illustrate the idea," Burns said. "He was a beginning engineer, the one who held the stick.

"I asked him when he decided on foreign service.

"'The first time I was fired upon,' he said. 'I decided right there that I would do my best to see that my kid never would go through this.'

"With that sort of attitude," concluded Burns, "our foreign service is in capable hands."

Bank of America Moves Into East

MANILA, April 24—(AP)—Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association Thursday announced the opening of a Manila office, its first in the Orient.

The Bank said it would pay two percent on savings balances up to $5,000 and one percent on balances under $10,000, which is considerably higher than prevailing interest rates.

'Big Four' Session a Failure; Delegates To Dine, Go Home

MOSCOW, April 24—(INS)—The Big Four Foreign Ministers' Conference on German and Austrian peace treaties ended in failure Thursday night with a "swan song" Kremlin banquet given the delegates by Premier Stalin.

Secretary of State Marshall, stressing the "urgent necessity" of telling the American people why the conference failed, will leave Moscow by plane Friday morning, arrive in Washington late Saturday, and make a nation-wide radio report Sunday or Monday.

The Ministers agreed to meet in London next November. They also will meet briefly in New York in September if all happen to be at the UNO General Assembly then.

In the final session, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov rejected as "absolutely groundless" Marshall's proposal that the disputed Austrian problem be referred to the UNO Assembly.

He said "such questions do not come within the competence of the United Nations."

If the Soviet position has not changed by September the United States itself may refer the dispute to the world organization.

Marshall, whose unsuccessful mission coincided with the bitterly disputed "Truman Doctrine" aimed at halting the spread of Communism, told a news conference:

"I think that with all my impatience we have a fair chance of reaching agreements on these critical matters within a reasonable time however depressing these present delays may appear.

"I was reasonably aware when I left the United States that agreement on a German treaty practically was impossible, but I had hoped for an Austrian treaty.

"However, we did agree on a commission which will meet in Vienna May 12 to go into details on the 'German assets' problem."

New Sanitary Projects To Cut Summer Diseases This Year

Summertime maladies which grow out of unsavory sanitary conditions may be whipped in Fulton County this year.

That hope is held out by health authorities, pointing with pride to recent strides made in the modernization of sanitary facilities by the County and by four suburban cities.

College Park has a $100,000 sewerage installation program under way and expects to eliminate in the near future all surface toilets and septic tanks. Two new trucks have been purchased to be used in the collection of garbage, Mayor Howard Evans announced.

Decatur has near completion a $185,000 program to modernize sanitary facilities. Hapeville is moving along with a $25,000 sewerage improvement program and East Point, expanding its present system as rapidly as funds and materials become available, anticipates the completion of a $10,000 sewerage project by June.

Meanwhile, Fulton County's Health Commissioner, D. R. McGee, expects the addition of a full-time veterinarian, Dr. John A. Giddings, to his staff will increase the scope of his department's campaign against infection through milk, meat, restaurants and grocery stores.

The fact that no undulant fever spread by cattle with Bang's disease has been reported this year substantiates a belief milk sold in this area is safe and under good supervision, Dr. McGee said.

Raw milk supplied by the 55 dairies under County supervision is graded A, B and C, with the grade stamped on the bottle caps. Dr. McGee said 95 per cent of the milk sold is grade A. All dairy workers are X-rayed for tuberculosis and blood-tested, he said.

City Has Mobile Unit To Fight Mosquito Larvae

Stafford W. Graydon, City Health Engineer, announced Thursday a new tank-equipped three-wheeled motorcycle will begin spraying catch basins in Atlanta next week to control mosquito breeding.

The machine will permit one man to perform the work normally required of three. Two tanks have been mounted on the red painted machine. One will have compressed air, the other oil. A press of a nozzle will liquidate the mosquito larvae in a pool or catch basin.

Rails' Young Fears Chaos In Monopolies

NEW YORK, April 24—(UP)—Robert R. Young, railway magnate and outspoken critic of many railroad methods, charged Thursday that Government-encouraged monopolists in labor, agriculture and industry threaten to wreck the nation's economy and bring on unemployment and war.

Young, Chairman of the Board of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, spoke at the closing banquet of the annual American Newspaper Publishers' Association Convention at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

He hit most sharply at monopoly in labor and industry and asserted that "the seat of all monopoly in America is in the railroads."

He charged that monopolists in railroad management were seeking not so much increased profits as increased economic and political power in collusion with politicians and other groups.

While the U. S. Department of Justice prosecuted Western railroads for alleged illegal rate agreements, the Interstate Commerce Commission "is engineering through Congress the Bulwinkle Bill which will legalize such agreements and thus cancel out what appears to the uninitiated observer to be the hard work of the Justice Department," he said.

HE AIN'T KIDDIN' ABOUT BUDGET!

Cutting State expenditures to the bone apparently has had its effect on Acting Gov. Thompson's personal budget.

While buying a ticket to a benefit dance for needy phone workers, the Chief Executive's smile changed to a blush on finding his billfold was bare.

Thompson's secretary rescued the day with a dollar loan which the Governor smilingly paid to A. M. Wilson, of the union's Atlanta Central Committee. The dance will be held from 8 to 12 o'clock tonight at 16 Courtland, N. E.

$125,000 Damage In Albany Fire

ALBANY, April 24 — A flash fire which swept through the Albany Candy Company building late Wednesday afternoon resulted in damage estimated at $125,000 to stock and structure, Owner Cecil Jones said.

The fire started apparently from a store of matches on one side of the building. Flames spread rapidly through cardboard boxes stacked nearly to the ceiling, Fire Chief D. W. Brosnan said.

The stock, which was insured, included 100 boxes of "the first good-sized shipment of candy we have received since the war," Jones said.

come effective on the signature of the Mayor.

A three-man subcommittee from the Fulton Grand Jury, meanwhile, began an investigation of steps taken by city authorities to protect the lives of persons in buildings of multiple occupancy or public assembly.

The special Fire Prevention and Safety Committee, named by S. W. Mangham, Jury Foreman, began a series of conferences with Building Inspector Harper and Fire Marshal Harry Phillips, and obtained inspection sheets used by Harper's office in listing defects of existing structures.

M. W. Slade, Secretary of the Grand Jury, is Chairman of the subcommittee which includes E. P. Tomlinson and J. F. Cloud.

Tomlinson said the group was convinced Harper and the Fire Department were co-operating fully in their effort to make existing buildings safer.

The Grand Jurors, however, specifically were studying the case of the Lincoln Hotel, the operating permit of which Council failed to revoke at the same time it acted against the Pickwick and Plaza. Council's Police Committee had recommended similar action against the three-story Lincoln at 125 Ivy St., after Harper's report had charged that hotel with 21 violations of safety laws.

wants, pay no attention to me—go ahead and vote as you choose."

Clapp, now serving as chairman of the three-man TVA board under interim appointment, was supported by two Republicans, Sens. Revervomb and Cooper.

Cooper, member of the Senate Committee which voted against recommending confirmation, told Senators he found "no substantial evidence" in the hearings that reflected upon Clapp's character or loyalty.

"It cannot be said that Mr. Clapp himself was a Communist," said Cooper, "and it cannot be said that he knew of this Communist activity (within TVA). I certainly do not believe his ability can be questioned."

TELEPHONE

company reportedly was urged strongly to come forward with some kind of a strike-settling wage offer.

The presence of two Federal Communications Commissioners at the meetings suggested that the threat of a cut in A. T. & T.'s long distance telephone rates may have been raised to "persuade" the company.

On the actual strike front, minor violence on the picket lines in Washington resulted in the arrest of one striker and the local company charged that "saboteurs" had cut a long-distance cable between here and Annapolis.

Union leaders decried the violence but warned that they were digging in for a long strike in which further disorders might occur, if the company failed to come forward with a settlement offer.

The union's determination to wage a "long" picket line battle if necessary was bolstered considerably by a $100,000 "loan" from John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers' union, boosting its strike fund to $157,000.

It also won a vote of support from the executive council of the American Federation of Labor which promised to "back up the telephone workers in their crucial struggle until this strike is won."

President Truman still was maintaining a hands-off attitude toward the strike. Asked at his press conference whether he intended any action to break the stalemate, he said the matter still is in the Labor Department's hands.

Other Government officials however, were openly hopeful that the new strategy of "pressure" on the company would produce a quick settlement. One said there was a "50-50 chance" that the strikers would be back to work within a week.

The nature of the new strategy was indicated strongly by the presence at the company-government conference in New York of Federal Communications Commissioners Charles W. Denny and Edward M. Webster. Ast. Sec. of Labor John W. Gibson also sat in on talks with A. T. & T. Pres. Walter S. Gifford and Vice Pres. C. F. Craig.

Dixie Governors Study Union Plea To Halt Strike

Whether the Southern Governors' Conference would meet to end the 18-day-old phone strike remained in doubt Thursday following conferences between union officials and the Governors of North Carolina and Georgia.

Gov. R. Gregg Cherry, Chairman of the Conference, commented after a meeting with North Carolina union officials in Raleigh that he did not see where a meeting of the conference would be of any material benefit.

In Atlanta, Gov. Thompson told S. E. Simms, State Director of the Southern Federation of Telephone Workers, it was not his prerogative to ask that the Conference be convened but that he would attend one if it is called.

A meeting of the nine Governors in the Southern Conference had been requested Wednesday by H. F. Tweedy, SFTW Vice President, in an effort to ask the Conference to prevail on Southern Bell for a cash wage offer.

The North Carolina Governor remarked that the Conference did not have the power to settle the strike which has idled 42,000 phone workers—"that's up to the Southern Bell and the Union."

Cherry added he had talked by phone with the Company in Atlanta during the day "to obtain their attitude" and also planned to confer with Tweedy.

Announcing there was no indication the Company would make a cash offer, phone officials here declined comment on their communication with Gov. Cherry. Tweedy said late Thursday afternoon Gov. Cherry had not been in touch with him.

In Atlanta, Simms, accompanied by A. M. Wilson, of the Union's Atlanta Central Committee, told Acting Gov. Thompson some phone workers were destitute and warned that, if the strain continued, some "elements we do not want" might creep into a Union now entirely controlled by phone workers.

Asserting the Company had not offered "one round nickel in increased wages," Simms asked the Acting Governor to step in and demand that an offer be made before the relations between the 11,000 phone workers in the State and the Company were harmed.

Thompson said he had still taken no position on whether the issue of Southern Bell wages should be arbitrated on a regional or national basis. He agreed that the North-South differential was wrong but admitted he did not know exactly how it should be abolished.

Meanwhile, contributions from AFL and CIO Union Locals were being made to the Union's treasury here. The Atlanta Federation of Trades (AFL) Wednesday night urged affiliated locals to make voluntary collections for the strikers while the Union announced it would hold a public benefit dance from 8 to 12 p. m. tonight at the former USO Building, with the proceeds going to families of destitute phone workers.

Earlier, the United Press reported the Atlanta-Birmingham 50-line long-distance cable had been cut at 9 p. m. Wednesday in the Anniston-Oxford area and repaired by management personnel by 6 a. m. Thursday.

A 404-line cable serving Anniston and Oxford was cut at the same time. Both Southern Bell and the SFTW have offered separate rewards for information leading to arrests.

We Are Willing To Settle The Telephone Strike RIGHT NOW!

Since the big disagreement with the Union is over wages, we have offered to submit the fairness of our wages to an impartial group of citizens in the South and abide by their decision.

Such a board of arbitration would decide, among other things, the extent to which recent wage settlements in other industries have a bearing, if any, on telephone wages in the communities served by Southern Bell. Some of these industries have stated that it will not be necessary for them to increase prices, but since the Telephone Company is a regulated public utility, telephone users must pay in rates for service what the Company has to pay out in wages.

We think our offer to arbitrate is the best way to stop the strike and the fairest to employees and telephone customers alike. But the Union has refused this offer.

WHY?

Apparently, the reason is that the Southern Federation of Telephone Workers, a Southern Union composed of Southern men and women, cannot move without the approval of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, with which it is affiliated. And it looks as if the National Federation of Telephone Workers wants nation-wide power for itself over an essential industry through nation-wide bargaining.

The Southern Federation is the Union with which our contracts have been signed. They have made a long list of demands upon the Company, but certain of these demands, they tell us, cannot be decided through negotiations between themselves and us alone. They must be settled on a national basis.

In effect, therefore, the Southern Federation is being operated by "remote control"—by persons remote from Southern interests, Southern responsibilities, and Southern conditions.

The Company believes that settling Southern wage matters in the South by Southern people—on the basis of conditions prevailing in the South—is the fair way to handle the wage question.

If the Union would agree, the strike could be ended immediately—employees could get back to work—and the public could get normal service.

All this could be done if the Southern Federation of Telephone Workers would sit down with us, engage in free and unrestrained negotiations — and act for themselves.

Wallace Fears 'World War III' Already Set

PARIS, April 24—(UP)—Henry A. Wallace gloomily told an audience at the Sorbonne Thursday night the world already had gone so far down the road toward another war that he feared "governments and professional diplomats" may not be able to stop it.

He said the world needs a "great overwhelming awakening of public opinion—to call hundreds of thousands of public meetings all over the world to proclaim our attachment to peace and to world co-operation.

"Let the Security Council and General Assembly of the United Nations meet day and night—let congresses, parliaments and councils of the world resound with demands of the people to make the United Nations the sole instrument for collective security," he said.

Although Wallace has been a prolific speechmaker since he arrived from Denmark three days ago, Thursday was his first address before a public audience in France. He is scheduled to leave for home today.

Before his appearance at the Sorbonne, he was received by Premier Paul Ramadier, had a 30-minute conference with members of the popular Republican Movement, and told the Anglo-American Press Association that he was a middle-of-the-roader, politically. Wednesday he told the Foreign Affairs Commission of the French Assembly, "I am not a Communist—I am only a progressive."

He told the Press Association he had tried to avoid being linked with either the extreme right or extreme left during his European tour. He said he had told the French middle-of-the-road group it was "the symbol of what is so necessary over the entire world—we need middle-of-the-roaders to prevent a sharp cleavage between the right and the left."

Wallace said the present world crisis was psychological, economic and political.

"There is a psychological crisis arising from uncertainty and lack of confidence," he said. "There is an economic crisis because every day it is becoming increasingly evident that there is no international plan to reconstruct the war-devastated areas of Eastern and Western Europe.

"The gravest crisis is political. . . . Caused by the basic fact there is a wall of mistrust, fear, and, to a certain extent, hostility, which may divide our world into West and East."

Georgian Given 60-Day Reprieve 'On Last Day'

Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson granted a 60-day reprieve Thursday for Nick Morakes, who was to have died in the electric chair today for the slaying of Fred Adams, Madison, Police Chief.

The reprieve, which was concurred in by the Pardon and Parole Board, was granted to permit Morakes' attorneys to produce new evidence which they said was previously unknown.

Adams was slain May 20, 1945, in an altercation in which there was disputed evidence as to who fired the first shot. Morakes claimed he had his arms outstretched when Adams drew his pistol and fired and that he then fired in self-defense.

At the trial the defendant offered medical testimony that the Police Chief would have been paralyzed by the pistol bullet and hence could not have fired at Morakes if he had not shot first.

Morakes' wife twice appealed to Sen. Russell for personal intervention to prevent what she called a miscarriage of justice.

The Supreme Court sustained Morakes' conviction in a 4-3 decision in which Justice T. Grady Head, Lee B. Wyatt and Henry Duckworth dissented.

Gov. Thompson also granted a 60-day reprieve to a Thomas County Negro, Will Cromartie, who was sentenced to die for the knife-slaying of another convict in the Thomas County work camp.

Two other slayers will go to the chair at the State Penitentiary in Reidsville today. They are Willis Barnes, of Fitzgerald, convicted of killing two textile mill supervisors, and Lauren Porter, Lexington Negro, convicted of robbery-murder of an aged white man.

Barnes unsuccessfully sought to gain commutation on the ground that he was insane.

On-Farm Training May Go On; VA Solons Okay Wheeler Bill

By LORRAINE NELSON,
Constitution Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 24—On-the-farm training, scheduled to get the boot from the Veterans' Administration on June 30, got a chance at a new lease on life Wednesday.

The House Veterans Affairs Committee approved unanimously a bill by Rep. W. M. Wheeler, of the Eighth Georgia District, which would continue on-the-farm training and prescribe uniform requirements for qualification of veterans.

Until now the VA has left it up to the various states to set up standards for farm training. Wheeler said he patterned his bill to set up standards largely after the Georgia program and that virtually no changes would be required there if the bill becomes law.

Farm trainees get the same rate of subsistence pay provided veterans taking industrial on-the-job training; that is, $65 a month if unmarried, and $90 if married.

Under Wheeler's bill, the trainee would be required to have at least eight hours of institutional training per month from a qualified agricultural teacher, and supervised training on the farm.

PeachGrowers Launch Fight On Rate Raise

Southeastern peach growers organized here Thursday to fight an increase in freight rates for moving peaches to market.

A steering committee was appointed and empowered to employ counsel and rate experts to defeat the railroads' rate increase. The Interstate Commerce Commission will begin hearings on the increase here May 15.

Conference representatives were from Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee and North Carolina, the largest Southeastern peach-producing States.

The present rate from Ft. Valley to New York City is 99 cents per hundred pounds, or, including refrigeration, around $210 a car. The proposed rate would be $1.20 a hundred pounds, or around $275 a car. This increase of $65 a car, the growers say, would in many cases wipe out present profits.

Steering Committee members are: North Carolina—H. M. Nicholson, Director of Traffic for the North Carolina Utilities Commission, and C. D. Matthews, grower, of Hamlet; South Carolina—Troy H. Cribb, of Spartanburg, Manager, the South Carolina Peach Growers' Association, and C. C. Logwood, member of the Public Service Commission; Georgia—Sam Flint, rate expert for the Public Service Commission, and W. C. Bewley, of Macon, President of the Georgia Fruit Exchange, and Tennessee—John C. Hammer, member of the Utilities Commission, and a grower to be selected.

Jap 'Explains' Bombing Of Prison Vessel

YOKOHAMA, April 24—(AP)—This is why Allied planes bombed the Japanese Enoura Maru, on which 1,300 Allied prisoners of war died on the trip from the Philippines to Japan:

The ship had no markings to indicate it had prisoners aboard, Lt. Junsaburo Toshino, the Enoura's guard commander, testified before an Eighth Army Military Commission Thursday.

Toshino, one of eight on trial jointly on war crimes charges, said 400 men were killed in one Allied bombing raid alone.

Davis Pushes Buford Dam Starting Funds

"We are hopeful of getting an appropriation which will enable the Army Engineers to start work on plans for the Buford Dam this year," James C. Davis, Fifth District Representative in Congress, said here Thursday.

With Rep. Wood, of Canton, of the Ninth District, Rep. Davis came to Atlanta for the funeral of Lindley Camp. They returned to Washington Thursday night.

"An important appropriation bill for the Interior Department comes up in the House Friday," Rep. Davis said, "and both Rep. Wood and I want to be present.

In reference to the Buford Dam, Rep. Davis said an appropriation to build the dam itself is sometime in the future.

"But we think we can get $500,000 or $1,000,000 to start work on the plans," he added.

Rep. Davis said a subcommittee of the House will consider the request for these funds about May 15.

"I want to arrange for a big delegation from Atlanta and DeKalb County to be in Washington at that hearing," he said. "It will greatly aid us in our efforts to get the money."

Rep. Davis refused to discuss politics, local, national, or international. But he said that President Truman's drive for lower prices "seems to be getting results."

"All I know about it is what I see in Washington," he said. "But there the drive is certainly gaining headway. I hope it may be equally as effective in the rest of the country."

No Georgia Visit, Truman Says

From Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, April 24—President Truman said Thursday he has no plans for going to Warm Springs in June to dedicate the Little White House as a public shrine to the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Asked about the reported visit at his press conference, the President said the matter had not come up. He added he knew nothing about it.

State's Six Living Dixie Vets To Be Hailed Memorial Day

Georgia's six living Confederate veterans will be honored Saturday, along with the thousands of Confederate dead.

Memorial Day services will be held in Atlanta at 10:30 a. m. in West View Cemetery and at 3 p. m. in Oakland Cemetery.

Bearded, 98-year-old Gen. Henry T. Dowling, Commander of all the Confederate veterans and the only Confederate veteran living in Atlanta, will attend the services at Oakland, if he is able.

Other Georgia Confederate veterans are: Gen. W. J. Brown, Jr., Graymont; Gen. William J. Bush, Fitzgerald; Gen. J. S. Gregory, Indian Springs; Gen. J. A. Outlaw, Lyons, and Gen. H. G. Van Zandt, Macon. Their ages range from 98 to 102.

Forty new markers will be dedicated at the memorial service held Saturday morning for the 400 veterans buried in the Confederate lot at West View. Judge Frank A. Holden, U. S. Commissioner of the Northern District of Georgia, will be principal speaker. The Dorothy Blount Lamar UDC, Chapter 2104, will sponsor the West View services.

The Atlanta Ladies' Memorial Association, celebrating its eighty-first anniversary this year, will sponsor Memorial Day services at Oakland Cemetery, and John Ashley Jones will be speaker. The American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps, Post No. 1, directed by Roy L. Crawley, will provide the music.

The audience will salute the Confederate banner thus:

"I salute the Confederate flag with affection, reverence and undying remembrance."

The public is invited to both services.

Lumber Output Boosted in Dixie

Lumber production in the Southeast almost doubled in January, compared with the same month a year ago, the Atlanta Office of the U. S. Department of Commerce reported Thursday.

The seven Southeastern States produced 712,033,000 board-feet during the first month of 1947. The January, 1946, total was only 449,546,000 board-feet.

Production for January, 1947, and percent increases by States were:

Alabama, 103,710,000 board-feet, 1.5 percent; Florida, 65,690,000 board-feet, 94.5 percent; Georgia, 109,321,000 board-feet, 50.8 percent; Mississippi, 106,693,000 board-feet, 31.2 percent; South Carolina, 117,845,000 board-feet, 134.8 percent; North Carolina, 155,851,000 board-feet, 103.6 percent; and Tennessee, 52,923,000 board-feet, 59.8 percent.

For the nation, the Office said, board-feet output increased 33.8 percent during the month as compared to production for January, 1946. The total was 2,547,131,000 board-feet.

Rent Increase Voted Down

WASHINGTON, April 24—(AP)—The House Banking Committee voted 14 to 10 Thursday against a 10 percent general increase in rents.

The House Committee approved legislation which would continue rent controls virtually in their present form until Dec. 31, 1947. It gives the President authority to extend the controls until March 31, 1948, by proclamation.

Thursday's action apparently erased prospects of a general rent increase by legislative action. The Senate Banking Committee has rejected unanimously the 10 percent proposal.

A month ago, the Committee voted 9 to 4 to put the 10 percent hike in legislation continuing rent control after June 30.

Mrs. Flemister Wins Divorce

Mrs. Mary Louise Flemister has been granted a divorce from James L. Flemister, former OPA attorney, by Judge E. E. Andrews. the court awarded her custody of their two children and $150 per month for their support. The settlement also gave her property valued at $19,000 and the children a half interest in property valued at $31,000.

Flemister first sued his wife for divorce and Mrs. Flemister filed a cross-bill, then sued Miss Elise Whitley Johnson for $50,000 for alleged alienation of her husband's affections. Miss Johnson countered with a $50,000 suit against Mrs. Flemister for alleged slander. Both suits were later withdrawn.

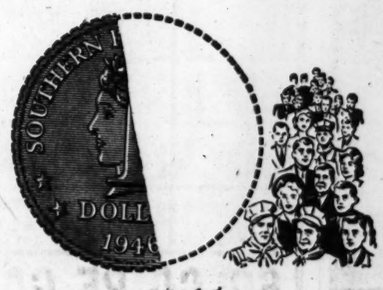

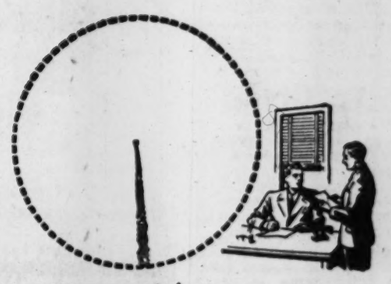

This is where our dollar went

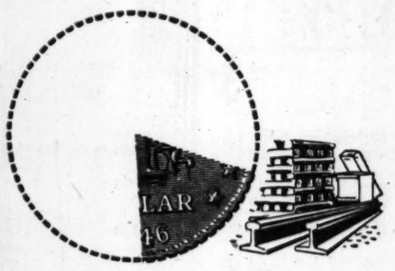

This represents each of the 276,526,571 dollars the Southern Railway System took in last year. And this is how each dollar was spent - - - →

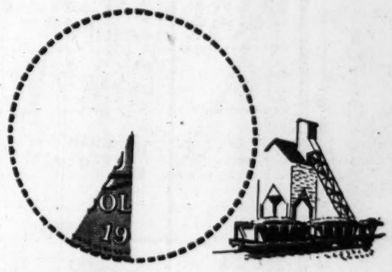

EMPLOYEES – 50½¢ was paid out for the services of our employees - - - →

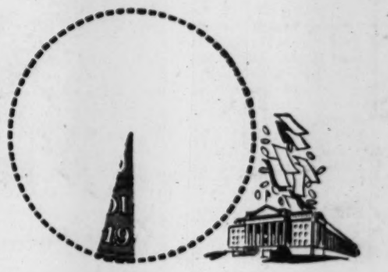

OFFICERS – 1½¢ was paid out for the services of all of our officers - - - →

MATERIALS, Etc. – 19¼¢ was used for materials, supplies and other operating expenses. We bought everything we could in the South - - - →

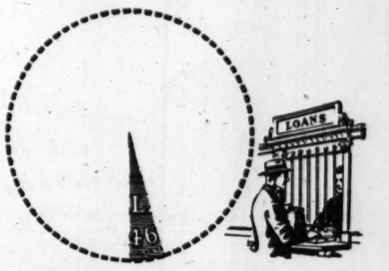

FUEL – 8¢ was paid for fuel—coal and oil—to keep trains running and to provide heat and power for shops, offices, stations - - - →

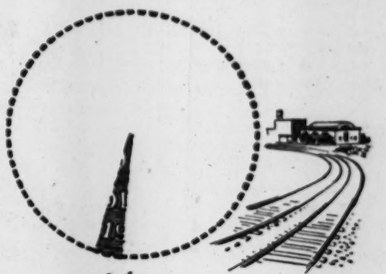

TAXES – 5¢ went for local, state and federal taxes . . . money which supports schools and other government services . . . even highways and airports - - - →

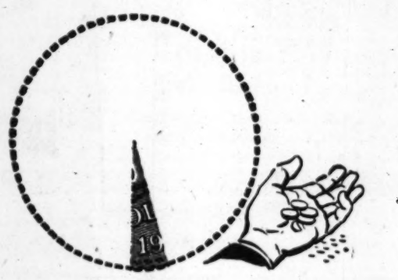

DEPRECIATION – 3½¢ out of each dollar went for "wear and tear" on equipment and facilities - - - →

INTEREST – 4¼¢ paid the interest on the mortgages on our property and equipment - - - →

RENT – 3½¢ was spent to pay rental charges on the equipment of other railroads, joint facilities and leased roads - - - →

LEAVING – 4½¢ for our owners, and for improvements and emergencies.

LAST YEAR, the American railroads as a whole earned a return of only 2¾ per cent on the money invested in their property.

This year – with recent freight rate increases and current wage and material costs – the return is expected to be not more than 3 per cent, which is only half the 6 per cent return that the U. S. Supreme Court has said time and again is "fair and reasonable" for public utilities.

Only financially-strong railroads can provide the efficient, economical mass transportation service so essential to the growth and prosperity of the nation.

TO BURY THEIR DEAD

Irish Horse Traders Plan Annual Services

Once again the Irish horse traders are gathering to bury their dead.

They are the O'Haras, the Costellos, the Sherlocks, the Rileys and the Carrolls—families which left Ireland 80 years ago for American opportunity.

They found it in journeyman horse trading, a carefree life they liked and have followed until today.

The nation at large is their trading post but deaths among their group bring reunions annually at two points—Atlanta and Nashville, Tenn.

When one of their number dies the body is shipped to undertaking establishments here and in Nashville. In Atlanta, the bodies are shipped to West View Funeral Home.

Funeral services are held in Atlanta on April 28 each year. This years three funerals will be held in Atlanta, all from the Immaculate Conception Church, with Father Joseph Smith officiating.

Funeral services are held in Nashville on May 1.

The arrangement, the horse traders say, is one of convenience. Their trade carries them far and it isn't expedient to hold funerals as deaths occur. Some of the Irishmen couldn't get to the funeral on time, so by agreement the dates and places of funeral are fixed.

In the old days the horse traders would travel in wagon caravans and pitch tents at night wherever they happened to be. The children would be sent to a Catholic convent.

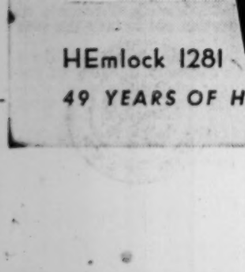

Today they are more stationary, but they haven't quit their wanderings.

They still travel throughout the land, still pitch camp in green tents, but their stay at different towns is lengthier and their mode of travel is not the wagon but high-pressure trailer-mobiles.

Failure, Too, Is Relative

In Moscow a dinner concludes the Big Four Conference.

The world cries "Failure."

Those who want us to break off relations with the Soviets cry, "Do it now."

But failure is a hard word. And failure is relative.

Let those who cry "failure" remember a few facts.

During the war, with the Germans at the very gates of Moscow, the Soviets never permitted inter-staff planning with her allies. When planes were most needed she refused to let our pilots, flying lend-lease planes, take them in. Instead she spent many valuable weeks arranging a plan whereby they could be flown in from Alaska by her own pilots.

At no time during the entire war, save at Yalta and Teheran, was there any conference at all between the Soviets and the other powers engaged with her in war.

Since the Russian participation at San Francisco there has been almost constant negotiation in which Soviet representatives have participated.

True, the Moscow parley failed to produce a treaty. Yet, let it be recalled that this newspaper and others predicted, before the meeting, that no treaty was possible. The bone being fought over is Germany—which holds the fate of all Europe in her economic future.

Even Gen. Marshall, Secretary of State, while frankly blaming the Rusians for making impossible a treaty, does not admit failure. In fact, he believes enough progress was made to make possible agreement at the next meeting set for next November.

Despite the lack of treaty, the very fact of the existence of the United Nations as a debating society, although it has been much more than that; the fact of treaty meetings, and the fact of other United Nations negotiations proceeding daily are encouraging when viewed against the past, especially the bleak failure of World War I treaty and peace efforts by united powers.

So, while the meeting failed of its purpose, it was by no means a failure.

Let every person who believes in the possibility of a long world peace continue to believe and hope.

The Sort of Pacifism We Need

Three bills on universal military training have been introduced into Congress.

They are supported by many persons, opposed by a few. The Reserve Officers' Association, composed of officers, mostly combat officers who saw service in the recent World War, are among those who support them.

As Gen. Dwight Eisenhower said, a few days ago, "The Army officers are the real pacifists. No man who has seen war, or been a part of it, wants another war. The men who spent three to five years in service and now are in civil life, do not urge military training because they want war."

As Secretary of War Robert Patterson has said, "This is a day of the quick, aggressor assault. Once attacked, it requires four years to create a formidable force. We all know that when the war ended the United States had just attained its full striking force. If we maintain a good force we are not likely to be attacked."

Many other well-known, peace-loving Americans have had something to say. A few of them are:

Bernard M. Baruch: "I favor universal military training so that everyone will have physical training and knowledge of the use of arms, so that he can carry out his moral obligation as a citizen. When we stand up for our rights, we want to be ready."

James F. Byrnes, former Secretary of State: "In the interest of peace, we cannot allow our military establishment to be reduced below the point required to maintain a position commensurate wit[h] our responsibility, and that is why w[e] must have some form of universal mil[i]tary training."

Warren Austin, United States repr[e]sentative to the United Nations: "[T]basis of our whole security, under our free democratic government, must be universal military training."

Mrs. La Fell Dickinson, President, General Federation of Women's Clubs: "I personally believe in universal military training as essential to the security of the United States and to the success of the United Nations. Moreover, I believe such training will benefit the young men of our country, and certainly it will save lives if we are drawn into another war."

Rep. James W. Wadsworth, Republican, New York: "George Washington and his immediate successors urged upon the Congress of their day the establishment of a system of universal training. Our failure to heed their advice has cost us thousands of lives and billions of dollars. We must come to grips with this problem and adopt a sound system of universal military training now. By doing so, we shall be safe and better able to lead the world in peaceful paths."

Sen. Harry P. Cain, Republican, Washington, who was promoted to the rank of colonel on the Ardennes battlefield: "We learned two things from World War II: One, that modern wars come suddenly. The other (lesson we learned) is that nations which are poorly prepared pay the highest price. Universal military training is the best solution in sight for our own problem. While my mind will remain open on this subject, I shall solidly support Sec. Patterson's recommendation until its opponents offer something better."

Think it over. Write your Congressman. The Senators are Walter F. George and Richard B. Russell, Senate Office Building, Washington. The Representatives are Carl Vinson, Eugene Cox, John S. Wood, Prince Preston, Henderson Lanham, Sidney Camp, Stephen Pace, Paul Brown, William Wheeler and James C. Davis. Write them calmly, asking them to support some sort of bill to make this nation safer against aggressor attack.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters from its readers. They must be signed, should not exceed 200 words. We regret no letters can be returned.

Cut Both Down

Editor Constitution: The public interest: Management and labor are the three parties at interest in any and all labor disputes. Which is of the greater importance? The correct answer is, of course, the public interest.

If management and labor could be brought to fully recognize this fact, the Congress as the guardian of the rights of all the people, might find it unnecessary to enact restrictive legislation.

But since both groups make a practice of ignoring the truth that the public interest is of paramount importance, laws must be found to protect the national welfare.

Both big business and organized labor are now guilty of using methods and tactics which contravene the rights of other citizens. To use a common figure of speech, both have "grown entirely too big for their britches."

In these circumstances, one wonders if the public interest would not be better served if the Congress should abandon its present plans and instead rewrite the laws pertaining to monopoly and conspiracy.

The average citizen believes that both capital and labor need to be cut down to their proper size. This being true, it would seem that the broadening and strengthening of the aforesaid laws might more readily be made to embrace the desired restrictions without favor to either group. A. S. HOOK.
Savannah.

Why They Cheat

Editor Constitution: Cheating in examinations like many other problems, that come up perennially and fail of solution, has perplexed many a college faculty. So I was interested in reading in The Constitution what Blue Key is doing at the University of Georgia toward the eradication of this evil. All the causes given for cheating may be true, but in addition I should like also to state briefly my own experience with this question.

During my connection of several years with Clark University, Worcester, Mass., cheating was so prevalent at one time that Pres. Atwood finally appointed a committee, of which I was chairman, to look into the matter and make a report to the faculty.

Our conclusion was that cheating was largely the result of rivalry over grades, especially among students receiving the highest grades. So we decided to do away with the custom of giving out grades to students. As in the past the office continued to keep careful records, but students knew only whether they had passed or failed. The effect produced by this change was most gratifying. Perhaps it would be too much to say that we entirely stopped cheating but we certainly reduced it to a minimum. Reliable students reported that the practice had been greatly diminished.

Blue Key might consider the experience I have briefly outlined together with the reasons they give for cheating.

Smoke Screen

Editor Constitution: I just want to know what good can be accomplished by calling another State Democratic Convention.

In my opinion it will create strife and discord and bring about a wider division between the two factions. The supporters of this rump convention are trying to deceive the people and make them believe that there is an upheaval in the State and the only way to save the Democratic Party is to bolt themselves. In my opinion a large majority of the rural sections are opposed to this scheme.

This is a smoke screen aimed at Herman Talmadge, and is a slap in the face to the thousands of white men and white women who supported his illustrious father. T. J. ENTREKIN.

RALPH McGILL

Yearns For a Mallet

Spencer J. McCallie, when he had a bit of truth which he believed important, used to say to the young dolts lolling on the benches before him:

"I wish I had this engraved on a mallet so that I might hit each of you on the head with it and really impress you with it."

I have just finished, somewhat belatedly, reading "European Crossroads," the same being the report by Ilya Ehrenburg of his journey through the Balkans.

I wish I had it engraved upon a generous mallet and might hit squarely and firmly upon the head each member of Congress who does not see the importance of the American Information program to Europe and South America.

The book is a masterpiece of propaganda.

I mean it is propaganda in its real meaning. We have, unfortunately, watered down, or so narrowed and changed the meaning of some excellent words, until they are cripples, peddling pencils along the streets of truth.

A dismaying number of Americans think of propaganda as meaning "lies."

It doesn't.

The real sense of the word is the propagation, or putting over, in more or less subtle or emotional manner, an idea, a faith, a truth—as the negative of faith or truth.

Superb Ehrenburg is the Soviet Union's best known and most able journalist. He is one of the world's most skillful propagandists. He is a cosmopolitan figure, conversant in several languages, a superb writer.

I was able to find no "lies" in his Balkan report. A year ago he toured the Southern part of the United States. I was able to find no "lies" in that report.

But in both of them there was a skillful exploitation of one phase of a truth and an utter neglect of the remainder of it.

There also was a complete avoidance of some pertinent facts. This was less true in the American articles, for obvious reasons, than in those concerning the Balkans.

I must hasten to say that many American correspondents have been equally guilty in writing of the Balkans or of Russia. But, I am sure, none has done it so well as Ehrenburg.

Omissions Nowhere in the book does Ehrenburg mention, or even casually allude to, the great flood of lend-lease goods from this country, and smaller amounts from Britain, which made possible the advance of the Red army into the Balkans.

He speaks of "our" guns, "our" tanks, "our" rifles, "our" planes, when many thousands of them were made in America and shipped in American ships, at great loss of American life, to the Soviets. Nor does he mention the enormous contribution of the Americans who opened, and supplied, the Persian Gulf ports and railways . . . all going to Russia.

Through it all runs the persistent theme—Russia did the fighting, Russia did the dying, Russia supplied the tanks, guns, rifles, planes—Russia liberated Europe . . . Russia gave the world the new hope and the new faith.

Trials He attends the Nuernberg trials. Yet, there is no mention of Eisenhower, Bradley, Patton, Montgomery, the American bombers and escorting fighters; no mention of the American landings and bitter fighting and dying as they fought through France and into Berlin.

He speaks only of Russia freeing Germany . . . the war was a Russian war in which only Russians suffered and died for liberty.

There is no mention of the United Nations.

He writes of Yugoslavia, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania and Czechoslovakia after the war, and it is superbly done.

The book is, essentially, a collection of pamphlets of propaganda. They were widely published in the Soviet Union. They have been widely distributed, and are still being made easily available, to the peoples of the Balkan countries. These same peoples are hearing very little about this country. They will continue to hear very little about it.

It is fair to ask "why?"

Answer The answer is that we have so deluded ourselves with the erroneous meaning of propaganda that we are not willing to spend what is, relatively, a pittance on an information program of news, including news about our culture and our part in the war and peace. We could present our own story in pamphlets and books and by radio. We could let the world know of our aims; of the fact that we are not a race of gum chewers, lynchers, and divorcees.

We whine about the success of the Soviets in spreading their own story.

Yet we are on the verge of killing off, in the name of economy, an information program which costs less per year than 19 bombing planes.

The dawn coming to the "new" Europe is a very red dawn, according to Ehrenburg's book, which is a boon broadcast like sown wheat in the Balkans.

And we are not permitting any other tint to be added to it.

I wish every American would write his or her Congressman to support an American program of information. Gen. Marshall, Gen. Eisenhower and Adm. Nimitz, plus all the personalities of our State Department, consider it vital.

I wish it were possible to hit on the head with Ehrenburg's book all those who do not think so.

An Atlanta 'New' In Film Bookings?

So far as I can recall, no outstanding screen production has ever been simultaneously premiered at two theaters in Atlanta. Maybe my memory is slipping, but I can't remember such an occasion.

So, next Thursday, when "The Best Years of Our Lives" opens at both the Rialto and Hilan theaters, one more Atlanta "new" will be chalked up.

Of course, simultaneous premieres are no novelty in the big cities of the land. Only a couple of weeks or so ago I read where one picture is to bow in, I think it was, 35 theaters in Greater New York.

But New York is not Atlanta, by any manner of means. Hitherto we have been content to book films into one theater at a time—that is on first run—with an occasional "world premiere" and all its hoorah thrown in.

A Problem Of course, Manager Bill Murray has a problem on his hands whenever an outstanding film attraction comes his way. His Rialto is the smallest theater, on seating capacity, of all the downtown first-run houses. Whenever it happens, not infrequently, that he has a film just everybody wants to see, some of 'em several times, he just has to keep that film for a long, long run. Example: "The Jolson Story," which ran 13 weeks at the Rialto, a local length-of-run record. At that, they could have taken care of the same number in not more than three weeks at the Fox.

Now, there is no question about the "outstandingness" of "The Best Years of Our Lives." Read the list of awards by the Motion Picture Academy, made a few weeks ago. "Oscars" this film didn't take didn't amount to much, anyway. Eight first awards for picture "bests" of the year, that's all. Best actor, best direction, best supporting actor, best written screen play, best scoring, best film editing, and a couple of special awards. That's all. The cleanest sweep of the annual awards ever made by a single production.

Even without those awards to brand it as a super-blue-ribbon picture, the cast would draw capacity crowds. When you get Myrna Loy, Fredric March, Dana Andrews, Virginia Mayo, Teresa Wright, to say nothing of a couple of grand newcomers, you've got a cast that will start lines outside any box office.

Road Show So, Manager Murray is premiering, for Atlanta, this picture in the two theaters at one and the same time. The Rialto and the Hilan.

Probably, even under this added seating capacity, it will run for weeks.

The picture is to be "road show" at both theaters. That means, simply, an increase in admission prices. But who cares, when the attraction is worth it? Look in the advertising columns, among theater advs., for the prices, hours of showing, etc.

Once before, quite a few years ago, the Rialto was fortunate enough to show a picture which walked away with multiple Oscars. Only, at that time, the picture was shown here before the awards were made, instead of coming here carrying its honors with it.

That picture was "It Happened One Night." Remember? It ran for some six or seven weeks.

Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert co-starred. The story of a bus journey from Miami to New York. With an interlude of hitch-hiking and a night spent in a tourist cabin.

That was the picture in which Colbert, seeking to flag a car for a "hitch" and disappointed when Gable's thumb proves ineffectual, stood beside the highway and hiked her dress well above the knee. Result, the first car to come along drew up with burning brakes. Remember that scene?

Personally, I've always ranked "It Happened One Night" as just about the top in screen comedies. That was one picture even I saw at least three times.

A Bouquet To Ringling

Champagne and caviar for John Ringling North!

Soon as I find someone to put a finger on the knot while I tie the bow, I'm shipping out the pretty package to the gent who produced this year's Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus.

Last year, when I saw the Big Top I almost blew mine. Instead of the whip-cracking, death-defying shivaree I've always loved, John's cousin, Robert Ringling, served up a chewed-over girly-girly goulash.

LAST WEEK I got my pennant, program and peanuts, and sat in that box. With me were Eleanor and her friend, Ginny. In a front seat was the little boy Ginny is married to, Quentin Reynolds.

I knew a lot had happened in the circus world since the last time I had smelled sawdust. I had heard talk about the Ringling family's tug-of-war over control. After a lot of lawyers had thrown a lot of big words at each other, John Ringling North had been reinstated as bossman of the Big Show. I knew the circus was still digging its way out of the snowstorm of lawsuits which descended on it after the Hartford fire.

I knew a lot was riding, in money and emotion, when Merle Evans gave the downbeat for the opening fanfare.

What I saw during the next three hours pleasured me plenty. From the little man who opened the show by taking a steak away from a tiger, to the closing "spec" which filled the arena with elephants, giant jump-up clowns and confetti, it was all circus. Not something left over from a Roxy stage presentation.

The little boy who was with me couldn't even watch the act. Though big Quent, as war correspondent, had seen more fighting than most five-star generals, he couldn't look at the Welshman dancing on the 45-foot wire without net or balancing pole.

I LIKED the Miles White costumes and the Albert Johnson decor. Instead of last year's synthetic Ziegfeld, these trappings belonged with cotton candy and braided whips. There were platoons of pretty girls, but under Esther Junger's smart direction, they didn't parade around and show you their vaccinations for five minutes. They were part of the circus in the grand tradition, as was Barbette's sigh-catching Aerial Can-can. As was the high-wing collar on Pat Valdo, the genial major-domo.

I liked the music this year. The highbrow ballet for seven flutes and a glockenspiel has been handed back to the Ballet Russe. Most of this year's tootling is familiar stuff and guaranteed to bring every kid within a mile running. And that's as it should be. The circus is as timeless as the big shoes on the clowns. Nothing more modern than "Skaters' Waltz" or "Washington Post March" belongs on the music racks.

And so, the Romanoff caviar and vintage champagne for John North and his tinsel-and-thunder, tingling, Ringling spectacle. I'm glad the Greatest Show on Earth is again the greatest show on earth.

Last year I said I was going to take a little boy to the '47 edition. I told them if he ran away from home and joined the show, it would mean they had produced a good circus. Well, Quentin Reynolds has disappeared! Last Saturday he packed a bag, kissed Ginny good-by, and said he had to go to Pittsburgh to make a speech.

But he isn't fooling Little Willie. I hope he enjoys himself in the basement of the Garden, carrying water for the elephants.

Mule Sense Is Underrated

A North Carolina citizen has had his license revoked for driving a mule under the influence of liquor.

The man, I mean. The mule was sober.

It's a case for the WCTU, not the SPCA.

Mules don't go for liquid corn. Mules are smarter than people.

You never hear of a mule joining Alcoholics Anonymous or having to go off somewhere and take the cure. Mules are smarter than people.

Of course, being completely abstemious has its drawbacks. For instance, you never see a Mules of Distinction ad.

But, then, can you imagine a hangover with a head that big? Mules are smarter than people.

Yessir, horse-sense is highly esteemed but mule-sense is more to be desired. You never see a mule risking his neck at the high jumps merely to get some stranger with a sweepstakes ticket into the newsreels.

Both Sides Exploit The Labor Issue

WASHINGTON—There can be little doubt that a certain amount of politics is being played by both sides in the controversy over pending labor legislation. Democrats and Republicans both are guilty, to some extent.

The Republicans are convinced that much of the gains made by the party in the last election may be attributed to their stand on the labor situation. Hence they are out to exploit the issue as far as possible.

They hope to do this by passing a bill drastic enough in its provisions to invite a presidential veto, realizing that such a veto, if sustained by Congress, would tend to force the issue into the next campaign.

Only in that way can it be explained why the Republican majority in the Lower House was willing last week to put all of its labor reforms into one package in the face of warnings from responsible Democratic sources that President Truman was sure to veto the bill, if presented to him in that form.

Wiser Course The better course, it seems, would have been to break the legislation up into several parts, passing bills on separate provisions. In this way it would have been possible for the President to accept the parts agreeable to him while rejecting those which might cause him to veto the whole.

Any question of overriding his veto would then have been confined to those sections of the legislation which Mr. Truman and his party advisers considered too severe. Whatever might happen to any veto, the country at least would have the benefit of some labor reform legislation.

That there is some need for revision in our labor laws the country generally seems to be agreed. A way must be found for avoiding all of the strikes and labor disputes that have so handicapped our reconversion program.

Mr. Truman himself acknowledges the need for labor reforms. The only difference between him and the Republicans is that he thinks the opposition party is going too far.

Compromise It will be interesting to see how far Senate Republicans are willing to go in working out a measure that will be an acceptable compromise between the White House and the majority forces in Congress.

If there is not too much politics injected into the question, all with an eye to forcing an issue into the coming presidential contest, there is no reason why the whole problem cannot be handled satisfactorily by the present Congress.

Otherwise, there is danger of a bill being passed which would invite a presidential veto. And this carries with it the threat of the country being deprived of any legislation in the field of labor reform.

But the politics in the situation are not all on one side, by any means. If the Republicans are seeking to exploit the issue in one way, the Democrats are not entirely innocent of exploiting it in another.

President Truman has taken a firm stand against labor in strikes such as those which came in the coal and railroad industries. But it is unreasonable to suppose that he will be willing to go as far as the Republicans want to in restricting the activities of labor.

He cannot be expected to do so for the reason that he would be inviting political suicide by such a course. Without the support of labor he could not well hope for re-election next year.

Politics Labor is largely responsible for the past great Democratic majorities piled up by the party in the past four presidential elections. Take that away from the Democrats in 1948 and most observers will agree that the party's ticket will not stand a show.

It would be the height of political inexpediency, therefore, to use a mild term, for the Truman administration not to take the side of labor in the current controversy.

Farmers of the country, outside of the South, have long since gone over to the Republicans, so that the necessity remains all the greater for the Democrats to hold on to their labor support—if they have any hopes of continuing in White House control after next year's elections.

As to which side is more guilty in the political maneuvering that is going on over the labor situation, that will remain for the country to determine after the final legislation is passed. The answer should be forthcoming soon.

Just a Little Place To Write In

"Listen," I said, after she had talked about half an hour. "We can't afford a place in the mountains. Places in the mountains. . . ."

She sighed patiently. "That's what I've been trying to tell you," she said. "We can't afford NOT to have a place in the mountains. You know how expensive camps are, and with two children already camp age and two more who will be soon, just think how expensive it will be. Now with this little place, small as it is, we can just take them up there and turn them loose and it will be much less expensive. Why, in just two or three years we'll save much more than it costs."

"Wellllll," I said, remembering last year's camp bills and beginning to weaken a little. She has a sharp eye for changes in mood. She always knows when I am beginning to weaken. Sometimes she knows it before I do. She moved swiftly to the attack again.

Punch Line "And another thing," she said, "you are always complaining that you cannot write at home. Up there, where everything is quiet, we can fix you a little place where you can be all by yourself. Then you can sit down and write all you want to. Maybe you can even get started on a book."

I pondered over this. I visualized myself sitting at the typewriter, looking off into sylvan solitudes, puffing a pipe reflectively, like the pictures of authors you see in literary magazines. It was a warming picture.

"O. K., O. K.," I said, giving up the struggle. So that's how I came to own a place in the mountains. At least, that's how the bank came to have a place in the mountains. But they are nice people down at the bank. They let me carry the key.

Snug, Too It's a nice little place. I'll bet two people would be just as snug as a bug in a rug in it. Six people are going to find it a little snugger than that. But she was very proud of it.

"This," she said, flinging open the front door, and frightening a family of chipmunks who were asleep on the sofa, "is the living room. See the nice big stone fireplace. It will be cool enough to have a fire every night, almost. It's 2,800 feet above sea level. Or maybe 2,300, I forget which the man said."

"Fine," I said. "It's got a nice view across the valley. I can set up my typewriter in here and write furiously."

"Oh, no," she said. "Not in here. This is going to be our bedroom. We'll build in bunks right here alongside the fireplace on each side. Won't that be cozy?"

"It'll be too cozy," I said. "If I go a day without shaving my whiskers will catch on fire while I sleep."

I opened a door. "This is a nice big closet," I said, "maybe I could set up in here to do my writing. I just need enough room for a desk and a chair, and it has a window. . . ."

"Don't be silly," she said. "That's the bedroom. That's where the girls will sleep."

"Not if they breathe deeply while they sleep," I said. "They'll bump each other." I opened another door. It had a table and some chairs in it. It had a window and about a mile away you could see a corner of the lake, about the size of a handkerchief.

"Ah," I said. "Here's room. . . ."

"That," she said, "is the dining room. "Except we aren't going to use it for a dining room. We'll eat on the back porch. This is going to be the boys' room. We'll put double-decker bunks in it."

We looked at the kitchen. It was a nice kitchen. You could stand in the middle of it and reach everything, the stove, the refrigerator, the pantry, the sink. But there was no room for a typewriter in it. If it had a typewriter in it you couldn't reach anything. There wouldn't be anywhere to reach from, unless you went outside and reached through the window.

The back porch was nice, too, if you didn't want to swing a cat. There wasn't room enough to swing a cat. The bathroom was on the same scale. That's all there was.

Relic "Look," I said, after surveying my new domain. "You put up a great selling talk about having a place where I could write. Just where in this rambling mansion do you see any place where a man could write?"

She seemed nonplussed for a minute. Then her eyes lighted up. "Come with me," she said. She went out on the back porch.

"Look," she said. She pointed up in the woods. There was an edifice there, a relic of the early days when certain amenities, such as plumbing, had not yet been introduced to the mountains.

"Wonderful," she said. "We'll put a little window in the side next to the lake and I'll make you some nice curtains. We'll get started on it just as soon as you paint the house and fix the screens and scrape down the floors and sand them and wax them and paint over the living room furniture and spade up the yard and plant it in grass and move the woodpile around to the back and fix that little place where the roof leaks and. . . ."

"Wait a minute," I said. "Who is going to do all these things?"

"Why, you are," she said. "Who did you suppose?"

I went in the house and got my typewriter and brought it out and put it in the car.

"Where are you going with that?" she said.

"I'm taking it back home," I said, "to pawn it. I see right now I'll never be needing it, up here."

The 'New Truman' Measures Up

WASHINGTON—A country boy who gets to presidential press conferences only once or twice a year has at least one advantage over the big leaguers who cover them regularly.

Time's changes stand out more clearly. Impressions are more vivid. Seeing the President but occasionally, even the poorest reporter notices things which the White House Varsity, exposed to the constant kaleidoscope which is Washington, fail to find newsworthy.

There has been some comment, of course, about the "new Truman," but only those who saw him struggle through a press conference in the early days and who have not been around to watch the almost imperceptible day-to-day improvement can have really adequate appreciation of the meaning of the phrase.

MR. TRUMAN is no longer a round peg in a square hole.

He handles the rapid-fire give and take of a press conference with the same ease and grace that Louis punches a bag or Gehrig played first base.

His answers are deliberate yet undelayed. He is forthright and unequivocal. There can be no misunderstanding. While he does not hesitate to turn aside queries he considers premature, he seldom resorts to the evasive "no comment," a favorite refuge for the inept and unsure.

Mr. Truman, in short, acquits himself well. He has grown, in a relatively few months, competently to fill the toughest job in the world.

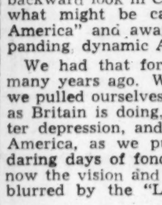

Moreover, he remains a good politician, possessed of a remarkable memory and the Dale Carnegie touch.

A press secretary introduces you and mentions that you're with The Constitution.

HOW'S McGILL, he inquires, adding a few nice compliments anent the abilities of the South's most prolific producer of quiet political essays.

And so you reluctantly leave, promising to pass along to the boss, as the President knew all the time you would, the kind words he has had to say about him.

With you as you go — having seen the ease and assurance with which he handles his job and himself—is a new understanding of the trepidation with which Republican leaders are coming to look to '48.

Has America Lost Its Vitality?

WASHINGTON—Perhaps because this has become the capital of the world there come here in a steady stream representatives of other nations whose people are fighting the slow battle of economic recovery from the awful devastation of war. They come from blighted lands filled with blighted people.

They tell what is going on in their homelands, standing before well-dressed groups who sit about tables at luncheons or dinners where there is plenty of food, well-prepared and well-served. They don't comment on this display. They enjoy the brief despite of luxury without mentioning the contrast.

YET THERE IS a feeling of quiet guilt among those who sit and listen. Aside from the feeling about the plenty, there is also another guilty feeling. It might be explained this way:

Of late there have been numerous visitors from Great Britain. The British people have been through a bitter ordeal this Winter and still and under restraints akin to those of war, entailing continued sacrifice. Yet, with it all, there is an indomitable spirit of courage among the people to overcome their obstacles and win out through their new experiment in Government.

As you listen to visiting members of the Labor Government describe it, you get the sense of excitement and aliveness and energy with which they are fighting their battle and, above all, the belief in what they are doing. They have something for which to live and struggle and sacrifice.

SUDDENLY it sweeps over you that this vitality of spirit is something that we here, in prosperous America, seem to have lost. Perhaps prosperity is not conducive to such intensity, such belief, though we need now so desperately to believe in what we have and where we want to go. Prosperity often has a deadening effect on the spirit of adventurous living. But perhaps there is something else, and perhaps it is the backward look in Congress toward what might be called a "Little America" and away from the expanding dynamic America.

We had that forward look not many years ago. We had it when we pulled ourselves together, even as Britain is doing, to fight a bitter depression, and to make over America, as we put it, in those daring days of fond memory. But now the vision and the dream are blurred by the "Little America" attitude in Congress that expresses itself in closing up the avenues of expansion, so that we can no longer see the frontiers.

Some of them are close at hand to all of us, right in our own neighborhoods, in the slums where we need decent homes, in homes where we need better medical care and education. Some of them are in the still wide open spaces, in now arid and waste lands where people could live and flourish if they could get water and power. We were moving into that frontier in the West and Northwest.

NOW THAT FRONTIER suddenly could be closed off, for one current episode, by the drastic slash in appropriations for the Interior Department decreed by the House Appropriations Committee. Development of many reclamation and power projects would be stopped.

What is back of this? Why is it?

Sen. Morse, Republican, Oregon, spotted it quickly when he told the Senate that it is selfish Eastern power interests "which do not like to see low power rates made available to the people of the West." These interests, influential with elements in both parties, are edging their way back into politics again as America sleeps in the ingratiating sun of prosperity.

It was the domination of Republican policy by the East that led to the party's last political downfall. Warning of the inherent danger politically of any such short-sighted policy, the Oregon Senator at the same time dramatized the bigger issue when he said:

"This is no time to restrict our economy. This is a time to expand, because without an expanding economy and ever-increasing production, stagnation overtakes our system of supply and demand and depressions follow. I do not think we have scratched the surface of the potentialities of our capitalistic system."

Our capitalistic system requires energy and daring and vision to realize its potentials.

Britain is doing so much with so little. It should shame us with our riches.

Drama--- And Desperation

We've said it before and we say it again, there's no show on earth like the one that plays day in and day out, year in and year out in a county courthouse. Admission is free and the audience is either of standing-room-only capacity or made up of a lonely straggler or two wandering in to get out of the weather.

Here tragedy, comedy and unflagging drama run their course. Here hearts are broken and fortunes are made. Here marriages are broken and marriages also are made. It's a constant, continuous multiple-ring circus with no stops unpulled. And if some of the actors are hams, if some of the dialogue is corny and some of the plots seem shoddy, you don't notice because underneath the essential histrionics there's an underlying current of desperate and undeniable sincerity.

CLARA, a skinny little colored girl charged with murder, sits back of her lawyer all day in a great dim courtroom and listens. She knows they are talking about what she did but the words don't make sense to her. "If it please the court . . . this defendant . . . the indictment alleges . . . if your honor please . . . gentlemen of the jury." Late in the afternoon they bring in a verdict, also the knife Clara stuck in Fanny May's heart. "Involuntary manslaughter" the man says—and Clara, because she doesn't know what they're talking about, smiles sociably at everybody.

"You're lucky, gal," a bailiff assures her. "They could've give you the chair."

"What did dey gimme?" Clara inquires.

'Twenty years," somebody answers, and the smile vanishes from Clara's face.

"I never live to git out, I never live to git out," she murmurs as they lead her away. "I tole Fanny Mae there wasn't no room for her to sleep in de bed wid me an' my husband!"

ACROSS THE HALL the long, hard-fought case of A. B. Davis and Dr. C. C. Russell versus Sam Finley, Inc., is nearing the jury. Davis and Russell, citizens of Resaca, Ga., want $2,000 damages from Mr. Finley because of the way his asphalt plant has polluted the air around their homes.

"Why, Mr. Davis had to go up to the asphalt plant the day he was ready to kill hogs to find out if they'd be running that day," a lanky, soft-spoken attorney from Calhoun is telling the jury. "The man couldn't even render out his lard without making sure that asphalt plant wouldn't be sending grit and tar out into the air."

Here the lawyer's voice drops and after a moment's quiet he resumes, choking a little as he speaks: "A man's home, gentlemen . . . why, that means more than anything. I don't know if you all are acquainted with Resaca but it's a fine community—and if any of you ever come up to Calhoun I'd be mighty proud to have you come by and see me. But you know what a man's home means. Why, one of the prettiest stories they tell about Resaca . . ."

IT'S BACK in the days of the War Between the States. The courtroom is very quiet and the lawyer's voice is barely audible beyond the jury box. The boys in blue and the boys in gray are encamped on either side of the Oostanaula River. A bugler on the Northern side starts playing "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and the Southerners open fire for all they're worth. Then a bugler on the Southern side strikes up "Dixie" and the Yankee artillery, the Yankee sharpshooters do their best to pick him off. The fighting is heavy all day but near sunset there's a lull. Suddenly the bugler on the Southern side begins playing "Home, Sweet Home." The Yankee bugler picks up the air and for a time there in the twilight the guns are still while the bugler in blue and the bugler in gray play along together a song that means everything to the boys on both sides.

"Home, sweet, sweet home, gentlemen," the lawyer's voice is very soft. "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home . . . these men from Resaca aren't asking you to do anything but remember that, gentlemen. Their homes are involved."

Later we learned the jury awarded the men from Resaca a verdict of $300 against the asphalt company—but it was a good show, anyhow.

One thing about old Uncle Sam that everybody knows,
He may have faults but always pays whatever debt he owes.
Sometimes he is a little slow in cleaning up a bill,
For damage done at Gettysburg or wrecking Bunker Hill,
But everybody thinks he's rich and all he has to do
Is put his printing press to work and run the dollars through;
But we forget the big amounts of money that he spends
And that he has poor judgment with the money that he lends.

He has to hire a lot of help to do the work required
Then hire a man to watch the man who watches the men he hired.
Which is a vicious circle that will never be complete,
And though he struggles with the ends he never makes them meet.

So this is why collectors of internal revenue
Are always sending out those little slips to us and you—
A man that owes him money finds old Uncle right behind him
But when HE owes a man it takes HIM 50 years to find him.

Savannahans Know How To Live

Savannah people certainly know how to live. They have all the accouterments to easy living and they know how to make use of them. In the first place they are never in a hurry and this means they have time for anything that comes along and catches their fancy.

The trouble with most of us is that we are always in a hurry. We are in such a hurry to get to the next object of our attention that we pass over the present interest. "We run over more than we pick up," as the saying goes.

THEY DO NOT believe that relaxation is sinful, and this is one of their greatest contributions to self-expression and happiness. Most of us still retain an overlay of Puritan conscience which nags at our vitals whenever we are relaxing or experiencing pleasure of any kind. Like the servant in one of Shakespeare's plays, we are forever torn between conscience and reason; our reason tells us to relax, our conscience lashes us when we do relax. Savannah has overcome this barrier to contentment, never having been too much impressed with New England and its works and ways. Savannah, itself, is rich in history and envies no city or section anywhere.

They are a tolerant people, these Savannahans. This spirit comes from two sources, the sea and the diversity of religious beliefs. The sea is always broadening in its influence on our thinking. One cannot look at the sea and feel that his own particular view amounts to very much. The sea is mighty and the individual is puny; there is no place for exaggerated self-importance.

As for religious worship, there is more of it and it is more divergent than in any other city of our acquaintance. The churches are very old and highly respected with none of them dominant over the others. All are pre-eminent in their sphere.

SAVANNAH PEOPLE love their homes and their families. No spot is too small for a flower garden, no flower garden too sacred for the feet of their children or their neighbors. Old and young "poke around" in the soil, a practice which relieves tensions and makes for beauty and sweet living.

They are proud of their history, ancient and current. They believe in themselves and in their future. And through the ramifications of all their doings there runs a song, a contented song, a rollicking song at times, but always a pleasant song, denoting a people at peace with themselves and their environment.

Most important, they share all their bounties with whoever comes along.

"Don't let your land waste SUNSHINE!"

—says HENRY MALSBERGER, Forester

Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association

"A full timber crop, along with millions of extra cords of pulpwood, the Southeast's newest cash crop, could be grown without much effort on woodlots which are not now completely stocked, and on lands which are now idle," says Mr. Malsberger.

"The Southeast has the right kind of soil and sunshine to quickly grow pine into merchantable forest products, especially pulpwood. Farmers and other landowners who do not keep pine land fully stocked are missing a double opportunity. They can get more cash regularly from their lands, and at the same time provide raw material for a home industry whose wages, and purchases of both materials and services, make business better in every community.

"If you have land that could be growing pine while you do something else, plant seedlings if there is no seed source. If you have pine land that could carry a heavier growing stock, let it seed in by controlling forest fires.

"Everybody profits," Mr. Malsberger points out, "when Southeastern acres are all busy."

Sugar Hike Hope Voiced in Cuba

HAVANA, April 24—(AP)—The Minister of Agriculture told the Cabinet Thursday that the Cuban sugar crop so far has been 3,800,000 long tons. He expressed hope the 1947 crop would total 6,100,000 long tons.

Sewer Yields Body

BOSTON, April 24—(AP)— The body of a three-year-old Jamaica Plain boy who toppled through an open manhole, was found, Wednesday night lodged against an outlet screen at the Nut Island pumping station after passing through nine miles of sewer pipes.

The victim, Anthony Tammaro, dropped through the opening while he and his brother, John, 4, were tossing stones in a near-by brook.

Mark Value Slash Rumor Termed False

BERLIN, April 24—(AP)—Theodore H. Ball, Director of the Finance Division of the American Military Government, denied Thursday reports published abroad that quadripartite agreement has been reached on German financial reform under which the Reichsmark would lose 90 percent of its value.

"Someone is letting his imagination run free," said Ball, who participates in the four-power discussions on financial reform.

Solon Proposes Independence For Puerto Rico

WASHINGTON, April 24—(AP) Sen. Tydings, Democrat, of Maryland, proposed Thursday that the United States grant independence to Puerto Rico and introduced legislation in the Senate to carry this out.

"If the people of Puerto Rico want independence, there is a very simple way in which they can get it," Tydings said in a statement.

"If the Legislature of Puerto Rico will ask the Congress of the United States to give them independence, there is no doubt in my mind that the Congress will accede to the wishes of the people of Puerto Rico."

Tydings said his bill provides that after independence is granted, "a period of 40 years shall elapse before the full tariffs against importations from Puerto Rico to the United States, or from the United States to Puerto Rico, shall go into effect."

Extension Asked Of Tobacco Plans

WASHINGTON, April 24—(AP)—Delegations from tobacco-raising States asked a House Agriculture Appropriations Committee Thursday to allow "sufficient funds" to continue current tobacco programs.

Rep. Cooley, Democrat, N. C., told a reporter "the Committee did not indicate whether it will approve or disapprove such funds, but I feel encouraged that adequate funds will be provided."

Rep. Kerr, Democrat, N. C., a member of the Committee, said he believed money will be provided to continue tobacco programs. He added "the Government has always made money on the tobacco program. It never has lost any money because of penalties collected from over-growing quotas, for instance, amount to more than the program costs."

A STATEMENT FROM THE

National Federation of Telephone Workers

Phone Strike Can Be Ended Quickly

in one of these two easy ways

1 The way it was done a year ago

The Bell System could sit down with us and work out a general agreement on a national basis. This the company persistently refuses to do. They say that this procedure is impossible. It was done last year—why not this year?

2 End the continued Merry-Go-Round that has been going on between the "national" and "local" levels. Then the Union can negotiate "local" agreements. There have been day and night meetings between the Union and each and everyone of the 29 affiliated companies of the Bell family for the last three months. It seems that the local companies are permitted to talk but not to act. The Union wants action. The Public wants telephone service.

THIS IS A BREAD-AND-BUTTER STRIKE

Today it costs telephone workers an average of $8 a week more to live than it did a year ago. The union did everything it could to avoid a strike. But the sole offer made by the company was to renew last year's contract without a penny increase in wages. This left the Union no alternative but to strike.

ACTUAL TELEPHONE WAGES

These are nation-wide averages for a full week's work. Read and compare. Operators average $33—many start as low as $14. In New York City, operators start at $28. It takes them 8 long years to reach their top—$44 weekly. Other industries, conscious of increased living costs, have negotiated substantial wage increases with their workers. The company continues to refuse any increase at all, and has even asked to take away certain existing benefits.

WHY WE REFUSED "ARBITRATION"

You may have read much about arbitration offers. But, naturally you could not study the details as presented to the Union committee. The "offers" left many essential issues open. These many "holes" in the arbitration plans made them unacceptable.

THE COMPANY CAN AFFORD TO PAY

The wage increase we are asking is moderate. Last year the company made a gross profit of over $600,000,000 after paying wages and other expenses — with $215,000,000 left after taxes. Financial experts say it will do even better this year.

WE CANNOT GIVE UP UNTIL THE COMPANY GRANTS A JUST SETTLEMENT

Our resources are meager—far too small to pay strike benefits—too small to answer the almost daily advertisements of the company. However our hundreds of thousands of members are rich in spirit and the courage to face up to our gigantic employer for a living wage. We sincerely regret the inconvenience being caused the public and ask for support and understanding.

NATIONAL FEDERATION OF TELEPHONE WORKERS
JOSEPH A. BEIRNE, President

This advertisement is contributed by the INTERNATIONAL LADIES' GARMENT WORKER'S UNION (A. F. of L.) so that the public may know the facts and help speed a just settlement.

4 Atlantans Are Re-elected To Colonial Posts

Four Atlantans, headed by Scott W. Allen, were re-elected to high offices in Colonial Stores, Inc., at a recent meeting of the Board of Directors in New York.

Re-electing Hunter C. Phelan, of Norfolk, as President, the Directors declared the regular 50 cents per share quarterly dividend on the Company's preferred stock and a dividend of 37½ cents per share on common stock, both payable June 2 to stockholders of record May 20.

Allen was renamed Executive Vice President. The other Atlantans returned to office. Joseph Seitz and W. C. Moseley, Vice Presidents, and J. B. Pollard, Treasurer. Other officers, all from Norfolk, J. W. Wood, Vice President; T. W. Kehoe, Assistant to the President, and W. C. Pender, Secretary.

NEW YORK RANGE

NEW YORK, April 24—(AP)—Cotton futures fluctuated over a wide range in active dealings today. Final prices were $3 a bale lower to 85 cents higher than the previous close.

Old crop May and July deliveries were under heavy pressure of liquidation and hedging, influenced by the fact that producers offered spot cotton more freely to merchants and shippers. With more cotton appearing in the market, many traders sold the old crop months against purchases of new crop deliveries, which traded at a substantial discount. This accounted for relative strength in the deferred futures positions.

NEW YORK, April 24—(AP)—A number of stock market favorites continued to edge forward today although leaders generally stumbled over exceptionally light selling after four successive rising sessions.

The price-cutting campaign, combined with widespread wage hikes, inspired considerable caution among bullish contingents on the idea that corporate earnings might suffer in the long run. Skeptics also trimmed accounts because of waning tax relief hopes, a possible Fall business recession, doubts regarding labor legislation and the cloudy international picture which was highlighted by the breakup of the Moscow Conference.

Dealings, accounted for mostly by professionals, were sluggish throughout. Declines of fractions to a point or more for pivotals predominated at the close. Transfers of 620,000 shares compared with 700,000 Wednesday and were a low for a full stretch since March 24, which, in turn, were the smallest since July last year.

The quietest bond market of the past ten days today resulted in few price changes of more than a point. Some rail liens carried their improvement into a second session, but the lull in stock trading extended to industrial and utilities bonds.

Improved in the curb were American Light, Textron and New England Power.. Backward were Aireon, Lone Star Gas and Middle West Corp.

Talmadge Men Rallying To Stall Thompson

By JOHN COURIC

A counteroffensive to Acting Gov. Thompson's drive to reorganize the leadership of the State Democratic Party began shaping Thursday in the home counties of powerful leaders of the Talmadge organization.

At the same time, it was learned that James S. Peters, Chairman of the Talmadge-allied State Democratic Executive Committee, will speak over Radio Station WSB at 7:30 p. m. today in opposition to Thompson.

These developments are efforts to block the certification of delegates to the Thompson-called State Democratic Convention in Macon, April 29, where forces of the Acting Governor will attempt to purge Herman Talmadge and close lieutenants from the Democratic Party.

TALMADGE CLAIM

Talmadge sources said at least seven County Executive Committees had refused to participate in the certification of delegates and one other had rescinded its approval.

Thompson declined comment on this except to say all 159 Counties will be represented. His associates, however, claimed certification of delegates from 137 Counties.

The Acting Governor has charged that Peters and his associates have forfeited their right to lead the Party in Georgia because they "bolted" the Party in soliciting write-in votes for Herman Talmadge against his late father, Eugene Talmadge, the unopposed Democratic nominee for Governor. Peters and Talmadge claim the Thompson-called convention is illegal and insist that the present Executive Committee will speak for the Party until 1950.

LIST OF COUNTIES

Talmadge sources listed the Counties rebuffing Thompson as Bibb, Decatur, Dooly, Emanuel, Jeff Davis, Muscogee and Seminole. Baker County, home of Benton Odom, Executive Secretary to Herman Talmadge while he occupied the Governor's chair, reconsidered its certification and voted to boycott the Convention.

Bibb is the home of State Sen. A. H. S. Weaver, Talmadge stalwart, while Rep. Robert Elliott, Talmadge Floor Leader in the House of Representatives, lives in Muscogee. Emanuel is the home of Rep. George L. Smith, II, Talmadge - sponsored Speaker Pro Tempore of the House.

S. Marvin Griffin, weekly newspaper publisher and radio station owner in Decatur County, served as Adjutant General while Herman Talmadge held the Governorship.

House Speaker Fred Hand, of Mitchell County, another Talmadge adherent, said the Democratic Executive Committee would meet Monday to "reconsider its action and refuse to send delegates."

Another Talmadge source said Wilkinson County will meet today to reconsider its participation, while Burke and Hall Counties will meet for reconsideration Saturday.

The Bibb Committee is scheduled to meet again today to discuss its refusal to certify delegates.

A Thompson spokesman said the situation in Hall County is confused since "the duly elected" Executive Committee was ousted by the Talmadge-dominated State Convention last October, leaving two rival groups. The same spokesman said Dooly County's delegates were certified and Seminole's certification also was on record.

In Jeff Davis County a struggle was reported between pro-Talmadge and pro-Thompson forces with pro-Thompson committeemen naming new members to fill the places of "retiring" Talmadge adherents.

And in Dougherty County, Rep. Adie N. Durden announced he had accepted floor leadership of the new convention.

CITY MECHANIC INJURED IN BLAST OF ERSTWHILE WATER-PIPE 'BOILER'

A freak accident in which a length of iron pipe was converted into a miniature steam boiler and exploded in his face Thursday sent E. L. Williams, 38-year-old city mechanic, to Grady Hospital with serious injuries about the face and arms.

Williams, a resident of 414 Loomis Ave., S. E., was straightening iron pipes used to hold up traffic signs, J. P. Carroll, Shop Foreman, said. One of the pipes apparently contained water, and when Williams heated the pipe red hot, it exploded.

The force of the explosion hurled Williams 10 feet across the garage and sent fragments of the pipe into his arms and face. He was under treatment at Grady Hospital.

Thompson Fills Vets Council On Education

Appointment of a full membership to the newly-created Veterans' Education Council was announced Thursday by Acting Gov. Thompson.

The appointments were made from nominations by the State Board of Education, the State Board of Veterans' Service and the Board of Regents of the State University System.

Those selected are:

Quintard Wright, Dougherty County; J. L. (Jake) Story, Floyd County; Emory Bass, Lowndes County; Lt. Col. E. B. Liles, Glynn County, representing the State Board of Veterans' Service;

Dr. Phil B. Narmore, Dean of General Engineering at Georgia Tech, and Dr. O. C. Aderholt, head of the School of Education at the University of Georgia, representing the Board of Regents;

Dr. George Connell, Vice President of Mercer University, and C. E. Landrum, Hapeville school teacher, representing the State Board of Education.

F. H. Rayfield, Atlanta industrialist, is the Acting Governor's representative on the Council, which is charged with the administration of institutional and on-the-job training for veterans.

O. Max Gardner Overpaid Taxes By $52,989

WASHINGTON, April 24—(AP)—The late O. Max Gardner, of Shelby, N. C., who was Undersecretary of the Treasury for most of 1946, overpaid his income tax for that year by $52,989, the Internal Revenue Bureau reported Thursday.

Gardner resigned the Treasury post to accept appointment as Ambassador to Great Britain but died the day he was to have sailed for England in early February.

The overpayment will be refunded or credited to his estate against other taxes.

Benzedrine Inhalers 'Fixed' To Prohibit 'That Extra Lift'

Roues who mixed benzedrine inhaler pills with wine or liquor to get that "extra lift" are out of luck in Georgia, for the inhalers now are denatured with a strong emetic.

P. D. Horkan, the State's Chief Drug Inspector, disclosed this Thursday when he reported on new methods of controlling dangerous drugs. Benzedrine is only one of several drugs which must be dispensed with greater care since the 1947 General Assembly passed more stringent regulations.

Horkan said the emetic in the inhaler does not lessen its efficacy.

The improper use of benzedrine more frequently came to the public's attention when orgies, resulting from "benzedrine cocktails," aroused the ire of prosecuting attorneys over the State.

The Assembly providing for control of dangerous drugs yet to be discovered and already on the market, empowered the Georgia Board of Pharmacy to classify as dangerous any drug so termed by the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

The regulations prohibit the sale of barbiturates, or sleeping pills, and of powerful sulfa drugs, except by prescription only, Horkan said.

The Legislature also set up more stringent rules for pharmacists. Each drugstore must have a registered pharmacist, and the old practice of commuting between drugstores is prohibited.

Changes in employment of a pharmacist must be reported to the Joint Secretary of the State Examining Boards or to the Chief Drug Inspector within 10 days to permit a close check to assure that each drugstore has a licensed pharmacist at all times.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Dean Thompson, of Vassar, To Be Honored at Reunion

For the past several years it has been the custom of Miss Mildred Thompson, popular Dean of Vassar College, to vacation here in April with her family, for then, she says, she is privileged to enjoy two Springs, one in Atlanta and the second in Poughkeepsie.

"Miss Mildred," as she is affectionately called, came down this year on April 1 and has been the guest of her sisters, Miss Mary Thompson and Mrs. J. P. Foster, on Parkway Drive. She has made a number of delightful trips, since her arrival, one to New Orleans, another to Macon and a third to Nashville. Next Thursday she will return to Vassar, but, in the meantime, all of those members of her immediate family, who live at a distance, are coming home this weekend for a reunion and a royal celebration.

Miss Mildred's brother, W. J. Thompson, who resides in Philadelphia, and his son, Robert, of Baltimore, arrive tomorrow, and pretty Alice Law, who is a student at the University of Georgia, will come home for the weekend to be present at the family dinner on Sunday. Also present at the dinner will be Margaret Foster Shepherd and her husband, Donald, who are the Dean's niece and nephew; Miss Mildred's sister, Mrs. George R. Law, and her son, L. T. Law, who reside here; her sister, Mary, and Mrs. Foster. A very special canine guest will be "Lady Becky," Miss Mildred's eight-month-old silver-gray Yorkshire terrier, who came South because her mistress couldn't bear to leave her alone in New York.

Miss Mildred will be honor guest at the Vassar Alumnae meeting on Monday at 3:30 o'clock at the Atlanta Historical Society. She is highly pleased with the work of the trio of Atlanta belles who will graduate this year from her college—Sally Prescott and Sally Pat Connally, who received their degrees last week, and Mary Louise Hastings, who gets her diploma in June.

"WELCOME-HOME" PARTY FOR ELOISE JONES

Attractive Eloise Dickey (Mrs. Winfield, Jr.) Jones and her husband, who moved away five years ago, much to the regret of their many friends here, have returned, at long last, and have bought a home at 266 Lindbergh Dr., into which they have moved. Not only have they a home on Lindbergh, but Winfield's sister, Helen (Mrs. Patman) Dobbins, and her husband have purchased the one right next door!

Eloise and Winfield first lived in Columbia, S. C., then in Nashville, and just before their return to Atlanta, it was Memphis. Marion (Mrs. Edgar) Upton is entertaining today at the Mirador Room of the Capital City Club as a "welcome-home" gesture to Eloise. Covers will be laid for Betty (Mrs. McKee) Nunnally, Caroline (Mrs. Charles) Bethea, Emmie (Mrs. Robert) Chambers, Nancy (Mrs. Britain) Pendergrast, Virginia (Mrs. Alvin, Jr.) Cates, Dorothy (Mrs. William) Mason, Jane (Mrs. Edward, Jr.) Chapman and Virginia (Mrs. Meier) Kiser.

PHI MU PILGRIMAGE

When the Atlanta Alumnae Club of Phi Mu celebrated Founders' Day last month, the members decided it would be a good idea to make a pilgrimage to Macon, the birthplace of the sorority. As a consequence, a group will leave early Saturday morning to visit Wesleyan College and see the Philomathian room where the Philomathian Literary Society was founded 95 years ago. It was out of this society that Phi Mu sorority grew, with Martha Hardaway Redding, Mary Myrick Daniels and Mary Dupon Lyons as founders.

Mrs. Leon Jones, Jr., President of the Atlanta Alumnae, is in charge of arrangements. The group will leave from the Briarcliff Hotel at 9 a. m. on Saturday, and reach Macon in time for all the festivities which have been planned by the Phi Mu Alumnae of Macon.

Mrs. J. W. Dunlap, Jr., President of the Macon Club, announces that the Atlantans will be met at 1 o'clock at Wesleyan Conservatory for a tour of the campus. A committee will greet the guests at the door of the Phi Mu room, and Mrs. Henry Valentine, custodian of the room, will read the report she made to the National Council on the assembling of the room. Luncheon will be served at the Conservatory, and afterwards the visitors will motor to Wesleyan College at Rivoli to see the new campus.

The day's festivities will be concluded by a tea given by the Phi Mu Chapter at Mercer, and a tour of the Mercer campus. Twenty-five members of the Atlanta Alumnae Club are planning to make the pilgrimage.

Woodberry Executive, Wife Honored at Buffet Supper

One of the most delightful social events of the week at the Piedmont Driving Club was the buffet supper given by the Woodberry Forest School Alumni in honor of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. O. Taylor, the former being senior master at this famous 60-year-old Virginia institution and the latter alumni secretary.

Mrs. Epps Brown and Mrs. Leon Mandeville decorated the buffet tables with charming arrangements of yellow tulips, yellow calla lilies, talisman roses and bronze snapdragons.

A movie of the school and its activities, in Technicolor, was shown during the evening. The following Atlanta alumni and their wives were present:

Thomas D. Arnold, Frank Battey, Dr. Montague Boyd, Bobby Bray, Sims Bray, Berry Bresee, J. Epps Brown, Charles Collier, Hugh Dorsey, Jr., William C. Cram, III, James Dorsey, Sam Evins, Jr., Watts Gunn, Harry Harmon, II, J. L. Hicks, Jr., Lester Hill, Clark Howell, Clark Howell, Jr., Barrett Howell, Dr. C. S. Jones, L. G. Johnston, Lindsey Hopkins, Willis Jones, Dr. J. F. Kendrick, Frank Lake, Jr., Rutledge Laurens, Devereux Lippitt, Charles Nunnally, Frank O'Neill, Logan Pratt, W. S. Rankin, Jr., William Wellborn, Sam Weyman, J. Wallace Winborne, H. L. Young, Walter E. Storm, J. W. Walker, Hugh Agricola, Edgar C. Parrott, Thomas C. Parrott. Out-of-town alumni and their wives were: Ben Tyler, Columbus; Henry Maclin, Albany; T. H. Hall, III, and Alfred Willingham, Macon; Walter Mercer, Sam Varnedoe, Savannah; Walter Jervey, Marietta; Walter Wellborn, John Wellborn, Alabama; J. W. Warren, Tampa, Fla., and Mrs. Gates Eckford Little, whose son is attending Woodberry.

Kuniansky-Rawn Marriage Told

The marriage of Miss Esther Kuniansky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Kuniansky, to Stanley Rawn, was solemnized recently in a candlelight ceremony at the Mayfair Club. Dr. David Marx, who officiated at the marriage of the bride's parents nearly twenty-six years ago, performed the ceremony.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Jerome W. Ross, of Detroit. She was gowned in pink moire with headdress of pink maline and rosebuds.

The best man was Jerry Jarwitz, of New York City. Ushergroomsmen were William Lippman, of Toledo; Arthur Marks, Atlanta; Alvin Hodes, Chattanooga; Erwin Rosenblum, Anderson, S. C.; Jerome W. Ross, Detroit; and Dr. Jack Kelvin Bleich, of Atlanta.

The lovely blonde bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of white duchess satin, and her veil of illusion tulle was caught to a coronet of seed pearls. The bride carried a bouquet centered by white orchids and surrounded by cascading white gladioli and snapdragons.

Mrs. Kuniansky, mother of the bride, was gowned in royal blue crepe. Her flowers were white orchids. The groom's sister, Mrs. Sol Slotsky, of Portland, Maine, wore a rose and black silk print and her flowers were white orchids.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception after which the couple left on a wedding trip for New Orleans. They will reside in Houston, Texas.

The out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Max Brown, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. David Blank, of Miami Beach; Mrs. Sol Slotsky, of Portland, Me.; Mrs. I. B. Bleich, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome W. Ross, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Singer, Chattanooga; Mr. and Mrs. Max Kuniansky and young daughter, Sara Jane, of Lynchburg, Va.; Mrs. Pauline Kuniansky, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Ben Karchmer, of Springfield, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Winkler, of New York; William Lippman, Toledo; Alvin Hodes, Chattanooga, and Erwin Rosenblum, of Anderson, S. C.

Veal Should Be Served Done, Cooked Very Slowly in Dry Heat

By SALLY SAVER

Take the humblest cut of meat, cook it properly, season it imaginatively, serve it with pride, and both family and guests will call you the perfect housewife. That there are no "inexpensive" cuts any more no one will deny, but there are many "less expensive" cuts which, in the hands of an artful cook, will make culinary masterpieces. Suppose you are selecting a roast of veal for Sunday dinner. To make it look like the one in the illustration, proceed in this manner:

ROAST OF VEAL

Select a 3 to 4-pound rump of veal. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, then rub the surface with salt and pepper. Place meat on a rack in a shallow, open roasting pan. Do not cover, and do not add any water or other liquid to the pan. Set oven at 300 degrees or use a "slow oven" and allow 25 to 30 minutes a pound for cooking. Since veal is a very lean meat, better flavor is achieved by placing strips of bacon or salt pork across the roast. Or the roast may be basted several times during cooking period with bacon drippings. Veal should always be served "done," but one should avoid overcooking it lest the meat be too dry and less flavorsome.

Spring onions, or scallions, make a tasty accompaniment to beef or veal. To cook them: Cut root ends and trim tops as for serving raw. Have a small amount of boiling, salted water ready in a wide, shallow pan. Drop onions in water, cover, and cook until tender, which will be about 12 to 15 minutes, when water should be almost evaporated. Season with bacon drippings or butter, as desired. Serve in small "bunches," garnished with a strip of pimiento or green pepper. Recipes for other meat dishes on the less expensive side are given:

SHORT RIBS WITH VEGETABLES

2 pounds beef short ribs
2 tablespoons fat
2 teaspoons salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
2 or 3 small onions, cut in halves
5 or 6 small carrots
4 or 5 small potatoes
1-2 green pepper, seeded
2 small stalks celery

Cut ribs in small pieces and flour lightly. Brown slowly on all sides in the fat in a heavy skillet or Dutch oven. Allow 25 to 30 minutes for browning. (Slow, thorough browning gives better flavor). Add seasonings and 1-2 cup water. Cover closely and cook slowly about 2 hours. Add vegetables, sprinkle them lightly with salt, cover kettle and continue cooking until vegetables are tender, about 45 minutes to an hour. Lift meat and vegetables to a hot serving platter, and thicken gravy with 1 tablespoon flour, smoothly blended into 1-2 cup water.

LAMB RICE CASSEROLE

1 boned lamb breast
2 tablespoons fat
1 1-2 cups uncooked rice
1 cup grated carrots
1-2 cup chopped onions
2 1-2 teaspoons salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup canned tomatoes

Cut lamb breast into small cubes and brown in the fat in heavy frying pan. Wash rice and combine with carrots, onions, salt and pepper. Place in large, oven-proof dish. Form a nest in the center and place the browned lamb cubes in it. Add the tomatoes mixed with 1 cup of water. Cover closely and bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes. Add 1 more cup of water at this time, cover again and bake 45 minutes longer.

PRINTED PATTERN

By ALICE WEST

Here's a half-size dress simple enough to be classed as a classic even though it's brand-new and exciting One-piece with side drape skirt, saucy skirt bow and slim bolero, it's made from printed pattern 1939, sizes 14 1-2, 16 1-2, 18 1-2, 20 1-2, 22 1-2, 24 1-2. Size 16 1-2 takes 3 1-2 yards of 39-inch fabric.

Directions are printed on each pattern piece to show you what it is, where it goes and how to match it to its mate.

FREE! With the pattern you order you will receive an eight-page fashion book, featuring Summer styles, illustrated in full color.

Send 25 cents in coins, securely wrapped, your name, address and zone clearly printed, size desired and pattern number to Pattern Service, The Atlanta Constitution, P. O. Box 5055, Atlanta, Ga.

A roast of veal, topped with bacon strips and garnished with servings of buttered green onions, makes an appealing entree for Sunday dinner.

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

Why Don't You Learn To Entertain Yourself?

Too many of you write to this column wailing that there isn't anything to do around where you live. You can't go to the movies every time you have a date with somebody. Some of the places you just aren't allowed to go. Some of the places you don't like. And at that point you helplessly wave your hands in the air and give up.

If your town and your community don't offer much in the way of entertainment . . . you'll just have to cook it up yourself. Our parents tell tales of having fun when they were teen-agers . . .and they didn't have the movies and the radio and bowling alleys and pingpong tables. They didn't go in for canned fun . . . they made up their fun as they went along.

So if your dates are dull . . . if they aren't many . . . it's because YOU don't have any ideas for entertaining yourself. You've gotten yourself into a rut of having other people entertain you! No wonder you have small fun!

OUT OF THE USUAL

Sometimes it's what you're doing together with your friends that makes the evening interesting. But usually it's just being with your friends that makes whatever you're doing exciting. You don't have to do the same old things every time. You could vary your "going to the movies diet" with a lot of other things that are fun. And you don't have to go places and spend money to do them, either.

Doughless dates are a constant problem to the boys who want to see their girl friends. Their pockets yawn empty . . . yet they have time on their hands . . . and a girl on their minds. When the girls insist that the only kind of fun that amuses them is expensive fun . . . the boys just have to deal out the absent treatment . . . whether they like it or not. Then the girls can't understand what's going on . . . they figure the boys don't like them any more. It's not that at all . . . the boys can't afford the girls. And neither of them seems to have any ideas for having a good time without going broke over it.

AT HOME

Getting the gang together at home for an evening of games and dancing and eats . . is the solution. When you've exhausted all your community possibilities . . . then round up the gang at your house.

I've written a booklet that's sure-fire first aid for at-home parties. It's bulging with games that are not childish . . . and dance novelties and stunts that will make an evening lively and different. There are even some ideas for serving refreshments that might strike you as pretty neat. My booklet is absolutely free. Just send me a good-sized self-addressed and stamped envelope, and ask for my PARTY BOOKLET.

Then you boys . . . and you girls . . . all of you who wail that you haven't anything to do in the evenings . . . will no longer have an excuse. There will be plenty to do . . . if you'll cook it up!

East Lake Garden Show

East Lake Garden Show will be held at the new East Lake Community Center next Wednesday from 1 to 10 p. m.

The center is near the East Lake Country Club, and one-half block from end of car line. The show is free to flower lovers.

Music, Mixups Feature Show At Paramount

By KATHERINE BARNWELL.

Eddie Bracken is everything but a "Ladies' Man" in the picture by that name which opened Thursday at the Paramount.

He plays a homespun hick from Badger, Okla., where the population is 200, including the badgers! As for the ladies, they always wed someone else.

"Ladies' Man," the only new movie in downtown Atlanta this week, is packed with music, merriment and mixups. The picture recounts what happens, or might happen, when a hog-calling country boy becomes an oil millionaire overnight—and takes his money and his naivete to New York.

He has troubles at the automat —"a juke box with food." He gets caught in the subway's turnstile. And, of course, he meets a blonde. All this, and hundreds of gold-digging women, too.

Virginia Welles is the saccharine-voiced blonde, and Cass Daley is the toothy comedienne who adds wise cracks and clever tunes.

Spike Jones and his "City Slickers" give out with music that's definitely "in the groove."

ANGELIC GIRLS; GLEAMING BOYS

1,000 Sixth Graders Blend Voices at Music Festival

By BILL BORING

You felt as if heaven were coming close to you Thursday night in the Municipal Auditorium.

You heard something which sounded like the voices of a thousand angels.

And they were angels, too—those 1,000 little Atlanta sixth-grade boys and girls.

Five hundred little girls, their cheeks kissed red by youth and the out-of-doors, ribbons and flowers in their hair, little golden heart lockets around their necks—wearing patent - leather slippers and their first long dresses.

Someone said they looked just like angels.

And 500 little boys, every one with his face washed shiny and with his shoes shiny, too, and wearing spotless white shirts. His hair was slicked down and it matters not that on the morrow it will be tousled and he'll likely be wearing scuffed shoes and maybe sporting a black eye. Thursday night, as someone said, little Johnny looked just like an angel.

It was their big night, the night for which they had been rehearsing their treble soprano voices for one year. It was the night of the annual Atlanta Public Schools Musical Festival and the Auditorium was jam-packed with mothers and fathers and sisters and brothers—all smiling throughout and thinking, as they had a right to think, from the performance, that surely there was no sweeter music than what they were hearing.

The chorus of 1,000 voices represented every elementary school in Atlanta. All were members of the sixth grade and every one was a star.

The chorus was directed by Ruth Weegand, Supervisor of Music of the elemenary schools. A combined elementary orchestra was directed by Darden Rumble, while a band, comprising West End Schools, was directed by Roy Lee.

Wedding Bells Set For Movie Couple

HOLLYWOOD, April 24—(AP)—It will be wedding bells Saturday for Screen Players Nancy Guild, 21, and Charles Russell, 29. They will be married, they announced, in the historic Santa Barbara Mission by the Rev. Urbin Habig.

Miss Guild is a former University of Arizona student, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Guild, of Los Angeles and Tucson. Russell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Russell, New York

WIDOWED SWAN PICKS HIS NEW MATE IN EASTERN POND, FLOWN TO COAST

GLENDALE, Cal., April 24—(AP)—Everything was ducky with the newlywed swans Thursday.

Gus, whose habitat is the Forest Lawn Memorial Park lake, was a very unhappy swan a month ago when his mate died. Now a male swan won't be swaln to just any swan, so the park people shipped him back to an animal farm in Egypt, Mass., and let him take his pick of the field.

He chose Henrietta, a nifty number in white, and the newlyweds were at home after a honeymoon journey by air.

Report U. S. Civilians Held in Arms Thefts

SHANGHAI, April 24 — (AP) — The English language Daily Tribune said Thursday six persons, some of them civilian employees of the U. S. Navy, had been arrested by Chinese Police and charged with theft of arms and ammunition from Navy stores.

Naval authorities declined to discuss the report or give any information.

Admiral in Tokyo

TOKYO, April 24—(AP)—Adm. Louis E. Denfield, Commander in Chief of the Pacific fleet, and his staff arrived by plane from Peiping Thursday to inspect naval installations here.

MAYBE IT'S CONTAGIOUS—After Senate committees of the Minnesota Legislature killed two bills highly favored by the House of Representatives, vexed House members painted "UNFAIR" signs and picketed the upper body in protest. The bills would have affected the State highway system and gasoline tax proceeds.

Slayers of 2 Sought Here

A search for the slayers of a middle-aged taxi driver and his young bride at Sylva, N. C., last weekend led to Atlanta Thursday as North Carolina officers and Atlanta detectives combed local hotels for two suspects.

Detective Lt. M. M. Coppenger, of the Atlanta Homicide Squad, was assigned to the hunt for two men believed to have been the slayers of Jack Hall, 40, and his bride, Margie, on a lonely road near Sylva. They were slain, apparently with an ax, in Hall's taxi.

Investigation established the time of the double slaying at 11:30 p. m., Sunday. A robbery motive was indicated when it was learned Hall apparently had a large amount of cash on his person. A bus driver's tip that he picked up two men near the scene and about the time of the crime and brought them to Atlanta pointed the search to Atlatna.

*"She's beautiful. She's wonderful. And her mother serves Jumbo Ice Cream at her birthday parties."

JUMBO ICE CREAM

2 cups whole milk, scalded
1½ tablespoons flour
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, beaten
½ cup Frank's Jumbo Peanut Butter
¼ cup cold milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons sugar

Blend thoroughly flour, half cup sugar, salt. Add small amount scalded milk, stir until smooth. Add to remaining milk in double boiler. Cook 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour small amount over egg yolks, blend, return to double boiler and cook 2 to 3 minutes longer. Cool. Place peanut butter in bowl, add half of cold milk. Whip until smooth and creamy. Add remaining cold milk and cooled custard mixture. Blend. Add vanilla. Beat egg whites until stiff. Add 2 tablespoons sugar. Fold into custard mixture. Freeze in refrigerator set at coldest temperature, stirring several times. Yield: about 1 quart.

Newburyport Plan 'Leapfrogs' Nation

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

The 'Newburyport Plan"—one community's declaration of war against high prices—leapfrogged across the nation Thursday from Massachusetts to California and took root in such way points as Chicago, Detroit, Washington, D. C., Hamtramck and Otsego, Mich., and Virginia, Minn.

Already in its third day in the Massachusetts city of 15,000 where it had its birth, the "Newburyport Plan," under which retailers cooperate to knock down prices, appears to have caught the imagination of the country and shows signs of spreading even further.

Many large businesses and several industries have joined the parade by announcing price cuts ranging from 10 to 20 percent on such items as soap, phonograph records, copper wire, textiles, salt, and various chemicals. Still other manufacturers have announced "hold-the-line" policies under which markups and profits will be pared to prevent price increase.

President Truman at a news conference warmly indorsed the Newburyport plan, and remarked that his appeal for lower prices appears to be getting action around the country.

New price cuts announced by various businesses Thursday included:

The Procter and Gamble Company said it was reducing wholesale prices on household soap 10 percent, as did Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company and Lever Brothers on Wednesday.

Swift and Company announced a 10 percent slash on soap products and 12 percent on some industrial soaps.

The Roma Wine Company, at Fresno, Cal., revealed a 25 percent markdown in wholesale wines.

The U. S. Shoe Corporation, Cincinnati, cut men's shoes $1.

Reardon Industries, Cincinnati, reduced installed insulation costs by 10 percent.

Larger communities joining Newburyport in the "high price war" included highly-industrial Chester, Pa., and Brockton, Mass., both cities of 65,000.

In New York City one of the country's largest retail sporting goods stores, Modell's, announced a general 10 percent slash in its prices at its biggest New York outlet.

A demand for down-the-line price reductions on food came from the head of one of the nation's largest food store chains, Joseph Hall, President of the Kroger Company, a concern which has 2,600 outlets.

Hall told a group of Midwest executives in Chicago that food prices have to come down if the country is to avoid a "disastrous" inflation. He urged everyone in the industry — farmers, brokers, packers, retailers—to "back up and realize that for long-range prosperity prices have to come down . . . to the level of the buyer's budget."

In Washington, statistics were issued to show that current prices are running 157 percent above the level of 1935-39.

Among towns and cities falling in line with Newburyport, Mass., to fight high prices on the community level are:

Sherman Oaks, Cal., where merchants announced their intention to try the plan for a week.

Franklin Park, Chicago suburb, where 40 out of 43 retailers agreed to cut prices of 10 percent for 10 days — as is being done in Newburyport—effective Monday.

Hamtramck, Mich., where the Common Council voted unanimously a resolution calling for immediate price cuts.

Otsego, Mich., where prices were cut effective at once in a plan reported by city officials to be getting "100 percent co-operation."

Also Spring Valley, N. Y.; Virginia, Minn.; Amesbury and Leominster, Mass., where inauguration of the plan awaits only the working out of details.

In Washington two food chains announced reductions, one granting a 20 percent decrease in most canned goods, the other cutting butter prices three cents a pound. At Fort Dodge, Iowa, an auto and home supply firm said it would slash prices 10 percent. In Detroit and scores of other communities, individual firms announced price cuts.

NEW FISH DIET—Everybody knows fish eggs are good, but whether eggs are good for fish remains to be seen. An egg-laden truck recently crashed into a guardrail at Proctor Creek near Marietta to avoid hitting another car. Harry Trippit, of Atlanta, driver of the truck, said 30 cases of eggs were smashed—but he didn't tarry to see if the fish enjoyed the favorite breakfast dish as the eggs fell into the water.

GEA Resolutions Committee Favors Calling Special Session of Assembly

By M. L. ST. JOHN Constitution Staff Writer.

SAVANNAH, April 24—The Resolutions Committee of the Georgia Education Association, in convention here, is planning to ask the organization to throw its full strength behind a movement of the Georgia County Commissioners' Association urging a special session of the State Legislature to raise funds for expanding State services.

This was learned Thursday night as the Committee met to draft resolutions. Debate is expected when this proposal hits the convention floor Friday, since some GEA leaders do not favor a special session.

Resolution was drawn asking Acting Gov. Thompson to summon the General Assembly into extraordinary session, and this proposal was submitted to the Resolutions Committee for approval before going to the full convention. It specified that the call be limited to revenue measures to finance the expanded State services promised in the Democratic platform.

One educator said he believed if the teachers and County Commissioners in each County insist their local Representatives and Senators confine their remarks and work to financing the expanded services the special session cold be harmonious and successful.

Others said, however, that this Legislature is too badly split to co-operate, that it failed to pass a revenue bill in 70 days of regular session and that some members would use a special session to fight the Thompson-Talmadge feud again.

The Georgia County Commissioners Association in convention here earlier this week suggested a special session of the Legislature to raise money for the promised expanded services.

Retiring President Scott Candler, of DeKalb, said the Legislature treated Thompson badly by not providing funds. He appealed to the GEA to join forces with the Commissioners in asking for a special session.

Acting Gov. Thompson will address the GEA Convention Friday night.

The powerful influence of the Georgia Education Association over State affairs was shown in a report to the delegates Thursday by Sec. Harold Saxon. His report claimed the GEA carried out a successful publicity campaign to win the 50 percent pay increase for teachers last year, after a legislative investigation was launched "for the purpose of confusing the people on the need for more school money."

He said Gov. Arnall responded to public opinion aroused by the GEA and granted the teachers a pay raise. He pointed out every candidate for Governor last Summer pledged himself to carry out the GEA financial program for schools.

School Superintendents Elect New Officers

SAVANNAH, April 24—(AP)—Officers were elected Thursday for the Georgia Association of School Superintendents, board members and trustees at the Association's second meeting to be held during the convention of the Georgia Education Association.

Elected were Clifford G. Hale, Superintendent of Schools at Dalton, President; W. E. McElveen, Bulloch County Superintendent at Statesboro, Vice-President; and Dr. M. D. Collins, State Superintendent, Secretary.

Decatur Principal Named To GEA Directors' Board

SAVANNAH, April 24 — O. L. Amsler, Principal of Decatur High School, was elected as Fifth District Representative on the Georgia Education Association Board of Directors here Thursday.

Other directors named included: Dr. Harry Little, of Milledgeville, Sixth District; Eugene Owen, Canton, Ninth District, and Rufus Langford, Athens, Tenth District.

With two candidates in the race, delegates will choose a new State President Friday. Nominated for that office were Bela Lancaster, of LaGrange, and J. G. Garrison, of Ochlochnee.

Dr. Clifford Hale, of Dalton, was named President of the Georgia Association of School Superintendents, Board Members and Trustees.

The GEA re-elected Miss Mary Ella Camp, of Newnan, and Mark Smith, of Macon, as trustees for the State Teacher Retirement System.

Hand Says Special Session Of Legislature 'Inevitable'

An extraordinary session of the General Assembly is "inevitable" when the public finds out that State services are being curtailed because of a lack of funds, House Speaker Fred Hand declared here Thursday.

Hand said he does not expect Acting Gov, Thompson to call the Legislature into session but believes the lawmakers will convene themselves when public sentiment becomes strong enough. Primary purpose of such a session would be passage of new revenue measures and an appropriations bill.

"It is my belief," Hand commented, "that when the public finds out that the University System, common schools, rural roads, old age pensions and health programs are being curtailed for lack of funds, an extra session will be demanded."

The House Speaker, who lives in Pelham, said he does not believe a special session of the Legislature would be helpful at present but predicted that political tempers, now inflamed by the Democratic Party fight between Acting Gov. Thompson and Herman Talmadge, would be cooled within six or eight months.

"Then," he commented, "the Legislature could pass a revenue measure which would be for the best interest of the State."

Two Benning Bodies Taken From River

COLUMBUS, April 24 — (AP) — The bodies of two Fort Benning officer candidates were recovered Thursday from the Chattahoochee River near the Post reservation.

The victims were Michael F. Feighan, 18, of Detroit, Mich., and Werner D. Markey, 18, of Jacksonville, Fla.

The public relations officer said the two men embarked in an assault boat last Sunday on a camping trip down the river.

Miller said the six-day week was the first improvements made in working conditions in 28 years.

Medical Society Head Knocks At Bogey of 'Red' Medicine

Constitution State News Service.

AUGUSTA, April 24—The bogey of Communism reaching out to destroy the American way of life was traced Thursday through the history of efforts to provide medical care for the "lower classes" by Dr. Ralph Hill Chaney, of Augusta, President of the Medical Association of Georgia, in convention here.

"The endeavor on the part of some individuals to bring medical practice under bureaucratic control stems from a very definite theory of government," Dr. Chaney told the delegates.

The speech preceded a demand by Dr. G. Lombard Kelly, Dean of the University of Georgia School of Medicine, that the affairs of hospitals be taken out of politics and a State Hospital Authority be set up to administer the Hospital Medical School.

Kelly's demand was made following the reading of a paper on Georgia's "plans for increased hospital facilities and health centers," by Dr. Guy G. Lunsford, of Atlanta.

Dr. Lunsford stressed establishment of small hospitals to reach patients in rural and small town areas. Kelly prefaced his remarks by saying, "Let's talk about a two- or three-million-dollar State Hospital on the University of Georgia campus here."

He said he has sent a plan for removal of hospitals and medical schools from politics to the University's Board of Regents. A further report to be submitted to the Medical House of Delegates, probably Friday, will include suggestions of Dr. Steve P. Kenyon, of Dawson, for refresher courses for general practitioners, he said.

The fight to socialize medicine is "part of the struggle between those who hold that the Government should be of the people, for the people and by the people, and those who hold that government should be in the hands of a single individual or a small group of individuals, who shall direct, regulate and control the lives of the remainder—a system in which the ordinary citizen is simply one of the herd," Dr. Chaney asserted.

Freedom of action, opportunity and purpose are endangered in the struggle, he said. "Compulsory insurance and sickness-insurance are among measures utilized by the State to equalize income and opportunity in countries having socialistic forms of government," the Association's President declared.

The solution of a major problem confronting doctors—proper distribution of medical care—lies not in compulsory health insurance or regimentation of doctors, but in proper distribution of hospital and clinic facilities, Dr. Chaney said.

The prepayment medical plan reported favorably by the house of delegates to the medical session has been adopted in principle by the doctors. Further study to create a plan that will comply with Georgia laws is authorized and Dr. Steve Kenyon said legislation will probably be presented to the General Assembly at its next session to secure an enabling act permitting a prepayment plan to function.

Civic Club Plans New Park Facilities

Installation of a swimming pool and outdoor kitchens to supplement recreational facilities in the Candler Park area was discussed Thursday night at a meeting of the Candler Park Civic Club.

Leading the discussion was Scott Candler, DeKalb County Commissioner, who said he would participate in the new developments. More than 100 people, including aldermen and business men, attended the session, held in the courtroom, on Mason Avenue.

Beer Tax Hike Okayed to Pay New Firemen

Mayor Hartsfield Thursday signed a Council-approved measure increasing the city sales tax on beer nine cents per case to help finance a six-day work week for Atlanta firemen.

S. P. Miller, President of Local 134 Atlanta Firefighters, hailed the act as the first improvement of the department's working conditions in 28 years. A group of firemen, headed by Miller and Fire Chief Styron, crowded into the mayor's office to witness the signing.

Styron said the new work schedule will become effective May 1.

Hartsfield also approved a resolution directing him to appoint a five-member citizens bond committee to work with a similar group named by Fulton Commissioners to allocate funds and select traffic improvements to be made from the joint $16,600,000 Atlanta-Fulton County bond issue. The mayor said he expected to name City members Sunday.

He also said he probably will act on Council proposal for creation of 13-member charter revision committee late today.

Miller expressed the firemen's appreciation for the efforts of Hartsfield and Council in improved working conditions. He said the six-day work week would cut weekly working hours from 84 to 72.

City Comptrolled B. Graham West, Ald. Ed. A. Gilliam, Chairman of Council's Finance Committee, and Styron will determine the number of additional men needed to effectuate the six-day week.

The six-day week will cost approximately $144,000 annually, while the new beer tax will net about $99,100 a year.

Hartsfield emphasized the need for five additional firemen to act as instructors for volunteer fighters, which airline companies will provide to fight fire at the Municipal Airport. He urged sufficient money be provided for new personnel.

Dr. A. H. Bunce Wins Hardman Loving Cup

Dr. Allen H. Bunce, of Atlanta, author of numerous medical articles and credited with much original research work, Thursday night was awarded the Hardman loving cup for outstanding service by the Medical Association of Georgia, meeting in Augusta.

Dr. Bunce, in recent years, has served as President of the Medical Association and as President of the Fulton County Medical Society. He served in the Army Medical Corps in the first World War.

In making the presentation, Dr. William R. Dancy, Chairman of the Awards Committee, said Dr. Bunce reported the first spirochetal infection of the lungs in this country. He also reported the first series of blood cultures in cerebro spinal meningitis showing that 38 percent of these cases gave positive cultures before clinical symptoms appeared.

Dr. Bunce served on the Board of Trustees of the American Medical Association from 1929 to 1935.

The award was presented at the annual banquet of the association.

Money-Wise Cooks Serve Turkey

Are you money-wise this Spring? If so, you'll be serving delicious, plump turkey for Sunday dinner often. Yes, turkeys are plentiful and economically priced . . . and that adds up to plenty of good eating for all.

Roast Turkey

Sprinkle the inside of a Wilson's Certified Turkey with salt (2 tsp. for a 16-lb. bird). After stuffing, rub skin thoroughly with Advance Shortening. Place breast down on a rack in shallow roasting pan; cover with clean, white cloth moistened with melted Advance Shortening. Roast, uncovered, in slow oven and as cloth dries, moisten with fat drippings. If breast isn't sufficiently browned when bird is three-fourths done, turn breast side up. For that good butter-flavored skin, remove cloth about half an hour before turkey is done and brush skin with softened Clear Brook Butter.

Roast Turkey Time Table

Weight when stuffed	Oven Temp.	Roasting Time
8 to 10 lbs.	325° F.	3 to 3½ hrs.
10 to 14 lbs.	325° F.	3½ to 4 hrs.
15 to 18 lbs.	300° F.	4 to 4½ hrs.
18 lbs.	300° F.	4½ to 5 hrs.
20 lbs.	300° F.	5 to 6 hrs.

Good Companions

A successful dinner is "in the bag" when you serve Wilson's Certified Turkey with plenty of tasty bread stuffing, mashed potatoes and giblet gravy. New buttered peas and a salad of fresh pineapple and avocado provide just the right Spring note. Rhubarb sherbet will bring the meal to a perfect ending.

Dress up Mr. Gobbler in his best Spring finery with fresh strawberries and water cress surrounding him and you'll have an all-time winner.

Equal parts of whipped cream and Wilson's Mayonnaise mixed together to top the salad is nothing short of wonderful.

Week Day Magic

Leftover turkey will receive wholehearted approval when it reappears on the table as Turkey Tetrazzini. Pour creamed turkey and mushrooms into a nest of cooked spaghetti mixed with half its volume of white sauce, sprinkle with grated Certified Cheese, brown in the oven.

Looking Ahead

Salvage the wishbone, clean well, and let it dry out thoroughly. Add a coat of bright enamel and save for a perfect ornament for a package, come next Christmas.

Sincerely,
George Rector

Want a Luscious Meal, Ready to Serve?

Why not take a "leave of absence" from cooking occasionally, now that the weather's so fine? Here's a ready-to-serve dish you'll find right on your grocer's shelf . . . HORMEL Chili Con Carne that's totally, delightfully different! Even those who've been disillusioned by too-hot, too-highly-spiced chili find HORMEL Chili Con Carne a delicious treat. It's a just-right blending of plump chili beans, chunks of beef, and lively spices. It's daring but delicious . . . spiced just enough, but not too much. But to prove that this chili IS different, takes tasting . . . so ask your grocer for a can. If it doesn't cause the sensation I claim it will, — write Nancy Sasser, 271 Madison Avenue, New York 16, N. Y., and TWICE your money will be mailed back to you! That's a square deal, isn't it?

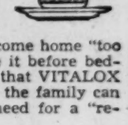

Dream Range!

If you've been dreaming for months about a new range . . . stop in tomorrow at your Frigidaire Dealer's. See the kitchen-brightening beauty of FRIGIDAIRE'S brand-new Electric Range. You'll say, "Why, here's streamlined design that's really practical!" Yes, the one-piece top flows in a smooth, unbroken line from the control panel, across the cooking surface, down over the switches. It's stunningly beautiful—and it means more room for your cooking utensils. Many other marvelous features, so I'll list a special few. Quick-heating Radiantube Units for definite heat speeds . . . HUGE Even-Heat Oven . . . a Cook-Master Control that turns heat on and off automatically, and doubles as a kitchen clock . . . a storage drawer as wide as the range itself! Stop in for a look at the new Frigidaire Electric Range—made by Frigidaire Division of General Motors.

You'll never again say that prunes are "just" prunes after you've tried MONARCH Finer Prune Plums, — for you've seldom in your life tasted anything so good, nor seen anything so gorgeous. Grown on the hills of Oregon and fully ripened on the trees before picking . . . they're real FRESH PRUNES with a natural, tart, saturated-with-sun flavor. Sweetened to the queen's taste, the syrup they come in is "yummy" . . . heavy, rich, wonderfully good, and although they taste and look like prunes raised for royalty, they're comparatively inexpensive. So look for the Monarch Lion Head on your Grocer's shelf and serve your family this fruit feast . . . just as it comes from the MONARCH can!

Make yourself a quick cupful of steaming hot VITALOX broth whenever you have that weary "ready-to-drop" feeling mid-mornings or mid-afternoons . . . and energy will S-U-R-G-E back by leaps and bounds. To make it—

Place 1 teaspoon of Armour VITALOX in a teacup and add boiling water. Right on the spot, quick and hot . . . it's delicious, stimulating and refreshing . . . an' its cost per serving is a mere trifle.

Serve VITALOX broth to members of the family who come home "too tired" to eat . . . and watch appetites "snap to!" Serve it before bedtime and to the children for after-school snacks. Keep that VITALOX bottle right in "plain sight" on the kitchen shelf where the family can reach it . . . to stir up a cupful whenever there's a need for a "refresher!"

Decorative and Delicious . . . Try it!

Here's a gay Spring-time trick to enliven your table . . .

Mould ALLSWEET Margarine into rounded balls . . . (either tint yellow with pure color that comes in packet each pound package contains, or leave white). Mount on gaily colored cocktail toothpicks. Stick toothpicks, quill fashion, into head of cabbage. Place cabbage in center of large platter and surround with assortment of iced carrot slivers, celery, Spring onions and radishes.

This combines both your relish and spread service in a decorative fashion . . . and you can make sure the ALLSWEET spread balls are just as fresh and delicately natural in flavor as the Spring vegetables! Reason is that ALLSWEET is made of fine food oils, blended with cultured pasteurized skim milk from America's finest farms. That's why you can depend on it to taste so delicately natural in flavor . . . so delicious on breads of all kinds and just the spread to give tender hot vegetables the savor your tongue welcomes! Remember that one pound of ALLSWEET packs rich food energy and 15,000 units of Vitamin A. For your health's sake, as well as for your taste's sake, ALLSWEET is a wonderful investment!

WORM-TURN DAY

Buyers Take Over June 21, Says GE Man

Be of good cheer, worms. T-Day is coming.

Turn-Day, that is.

A man who is on the selling side has consulted his statisticians, searched research reports, looked in his crystal ball, followed a couple of hunches, and now predicts:

Lang

The good old buyers' market will return to the USA at 4 p. m. June 21, 1947.

"That's a secret," declared Chester H. Lang, Vice President of the apparatus department of General Electric. "I haven't told anybody else but about 1,500 of our salesmen. Oddly enough, they believe me."

The executive, who climbed to a top position with GE after starting in the accounting department, was not kidding. He has the entire sales outfit of his department prepared to go to work Monday, June 23, really trying to sell the customers for the first time in years.

Beyond that small midyear recession, Lang foresees five years of "marvelous business" unless "we fail to produce."

'Ticket' to UNO For Jews Asked

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 24—(INS)—Six national organizations, including the CIO, joined in an appeal to President Truman Thursday asking for official United States support of the Jewish Agency's demand for non-voting participation in the United Nations special assembly on Palestine.

The appeal to the White House specifically requested the President to instruct the American delegation, headed by Warren R. Austin, to sponsor not only a demand for recognition of the Jewish Agency by the assembly but to insist on exclusion from any committee on inquiry both Britain and the Arab states.

An identical memorandum was presented during the day to Secretary-General Trygve Lie at Lake Success, making this the third petition presented to him on behalf of Jewish representation in the special session which convenes on Monday at Flushing Meadows.

Now! AN EASY, ENTIRELY DIFFERENT WAY to Color Margarine!

DELRICH E-Z COLOR PAK

COLORS INSIDE ITS OWN SEALED WRAPPER!

IN 2 MINUTES OR LESS!

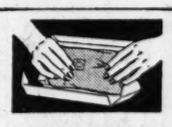

Pinch the Color Capsule

When Delrich Pak softens to room temperature, you simply burst color capsule (which is attached to inner side of wrapper) and squeeze vegetable coloring into margarine. No mixing bowl! No muss! Untouched by hands!

Knead the Pak

The coloring is done INSIDE the sealed wrapper! No waste! No dust, dirt! No dishwashing! You just gently knead coloring into margarine until whole pound is completely, uniformly colored. TAKES 2 MINUTES OR LESS!

Place in Carton

No mold or refrigerator dish is necessary! Just reshape Delrich by putting the whole pound, still sealed, back into the cardboard carton. Put in the refrigerator to chill.

Slice and Serve

When chilled, Delrich may be sliced as needed. The film is easily removed from slice before serving. Remember, Delrich is hermetically sealed in Pak—airtight until sliced.

NO MIXING BOWL! IT'S FUN TO COLOR DELRICH!

Fred Walters Brings Winning Ways To Pels

The large Mr. Fred Walters seems to have taken up with New Orleans where he left off with Louisville last season.

Mr. Walters, of the Laurel, Miss., Walters, is managing the Pelican baseball entry in the Southern League and at this writing his team is perched comfortably atop the standings, three full games ahead of its nearest rival, the Nashville Vols.

Of course, it is much too early to predict the Pels will win the pennant; they still have something like 141 games to play. But against their first three opponents, Little Rock, Memphis and Mobile, they waltzed to 10 victories against only three defeats.

But, as we started out to say, Mr. Walters seems to have taken up where he left off with Louisville. When Harry Niebold was suspended last season, Walters, a veteran catcher, took over the reins of the Colonels and led them from third place to a pennant, winning 32 games and losing only 12 in the last third of the schedule.

Consequently, when Johnny Peacock resigned as pilot of the Pelicans after the 1946 playoffs, Walters was signed and it looks like a happy choice as far as New Orleans fans are concerned.

Fred is well known in athletic circles in the Southeast. During the baseball off-season, he officiates at football and basketball games. He kept time for the Georgia-North Carolina Sugar Bowl contest and was one of the officials in the Southeastern Conference cage tournament.

We saw Fred after the Sugar Bowl game and talked with him a little about his new job.

"I don't know what kind of team we'll have," he said, "but we'll be hard to beat if trying has anything to do with it."

One of Fred's first acts as manager was to prevail upon his bosses to purchase Tom Sunkel, the old Cracker lefthander. Walters' desire for Sunkle dates back to the American Association playoffs last season when the southpaw hurled a no-hitter against his Louisville club.

As the season started, Walters indicated he didn't intend to do much work behind the plate, but one notices his name in the lineup quite frequently, indicating he has had a change of heart.

He is 32 years old and caught 130 games for Louisville. He is no stranger in Southern League circles, as fans have seen his 215-pound frame behind the plate in a Little Rock uniform.

Chattanooga Gains Stature The rest of the Southern League race is compact, with only one game separating the second and seventh-pplace clubs. Memphis, on the bottom, is six and a half games back of the Pelicans.

The Crackers, Vols, Barons, Pebbles, Lookouts and Bears appear pretty evenly matched, but, of course, adjustments will be made after each club has faced all others.

Atlanta has been getting good pitching all season but can't seem to come up with a base hit or two when needed most. Manager Cuyler's club leaves on its first extended road trip today, meeting Chattanooga and Nashville before returning to Ponce de Leon Park.

Of the three clubs which have appeared here—Birmingham, Chattanooga and Nashville—the Lookouts definitely appear the strongest.

Manager Bert Niehoff said that because of poor Spring training weather, his club was not yet in good shape and they showed it on the field. However, the personnel is there and every indication is that the Lookouts are still the team to beat for the pennant.

Joe Engel's pitching staff, headed by Hal Toenes, Lius Aloma, Bob Callan, Bill Kennedy and Vern Curtis, appears to be the best in the league. While Gil Coan is the only proven outfielder on the roster, several youngsters have shown promise.

To top it off, there are not many around the league who would argue that the Lookout infield is not the best. Jack Sanford, on first; Eddie Lyons, second; Angel Fleitas, short, and Charley Letchas, third, form a top quartet, both defensively and offensively.

If there is any one weakness in the Lookouts, it appears behind the plate, where Del Friar, a graduate from Pensacola in the Southeastern League, has been doing yeoman duty.

There is little to choose between the other two clubs which have appeared at Ponce de Leon this season. Nashville appears to have stronger pitching with Birmingham more power.

GMA Swimmers Face Birmingham

The GMA swimming team will meet the Birmingham YMCA tankmen tonight at the GMA pool at 8:15.

Those counted upon heavily for the Cadets are Tommy Smith, backstroker; Spencer Boyd, diver, and Paul Godfrey, breaststroker.

Godfrey bettered the GIAA record set by Rex Neely, of Boys High, last year with a timing of 1:15.4 against Richmond Academy last week. Neely's timing was 1:16. However, Godfrey will not be eligible to compete in the GIAA.

Glock Homers as Crackers Crush Vols, 12-2

Adkins Allows But 4 Safeties

By F. M. WILLIAMS

Dewey Adkins turned in a four-hit pitching job, allowing not a man to first base after the second inning, and his Atlanta Cracker teammates, especially Charley Glock, staged a concentrated hitting attack to close out an 11-game home stand with a 12-to-2 victory over the Nashville Vols before 4,563 fans at Ponce de Leon Park Thursday night.

Adkins, who was headed for an early shower after allowing two runs in the first inning, recovered rapidly and pitched probably the best game of the season, so far as the Crackers are concerned, from then on.

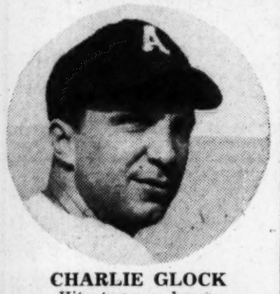

His starting mound foe, Fred Wells, got a double in the second after two were out and then Buster Boguskie walked. Jesse Cumby rolled out to first and that was the last time the Vols had anyone around the initial sack. Adkins faced exactly 21 men the last seven innings. He struck out four.

The Crackers overcame the two-run Vol lead in the second inning when Bruce Konopka doubled, Mike Milosevich and Roy Hartsfield walked and Babe Ellis and Ted Cieslak hit successive singles.

They went safely ahead in the fourth when Glock lined a home rn over the right field signs with Ellis on base. Two runs in the fifth, three more in the sixth and a final pair in the seventh were added effort. Adkins got stronger and so did the hitters as the game went along.

Glock had two singles in addition to his home run in four trips to the plate and also turned in two sparkling defensive plays.

He robbed Mal Serafini of a sure base hit in the second by making a back-handed stop of his roller right over the bag and then throwing him out at first. And in the seventh, he went far to his left to stab Joe Stringfellow's certain safe blow and retire him.

By far the best performance of the season for the Crackers, the victory evened the Nashville series. Atlanta leaves this morning for the first prolonged road trip of the year. It opens in Chattanooga tonight, with Shelby Kinney scheduled to pitch for Manager Kiki Cuyler's outfit.

After four games in Chattanooga, the Crackers move on to Sulphur Dell in Nashville for four more tilts, returning a week from Sunday for a double header with Bill Dickey's Little Rock Travelers.

Billy Key Leads Prep Golf Meet

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 24—(AP)—Billy Key, slight sharpshooter from Columbus (Ga.) High, shot a steady six-over-par 47 in the first 36 holes of the Southern Prep Golf Tournament here Thursday to lead Walker Inman, Jr., of Richmond Academy, Augusta, Ga., by three strokes.

Tied for third place in the ninth annual Rotary-sponsored event with 153's are Harmon Brownlow, of Baylor here, Monty Hill, of Darlington, Gr., and Louis McLennan, of McCallie here.

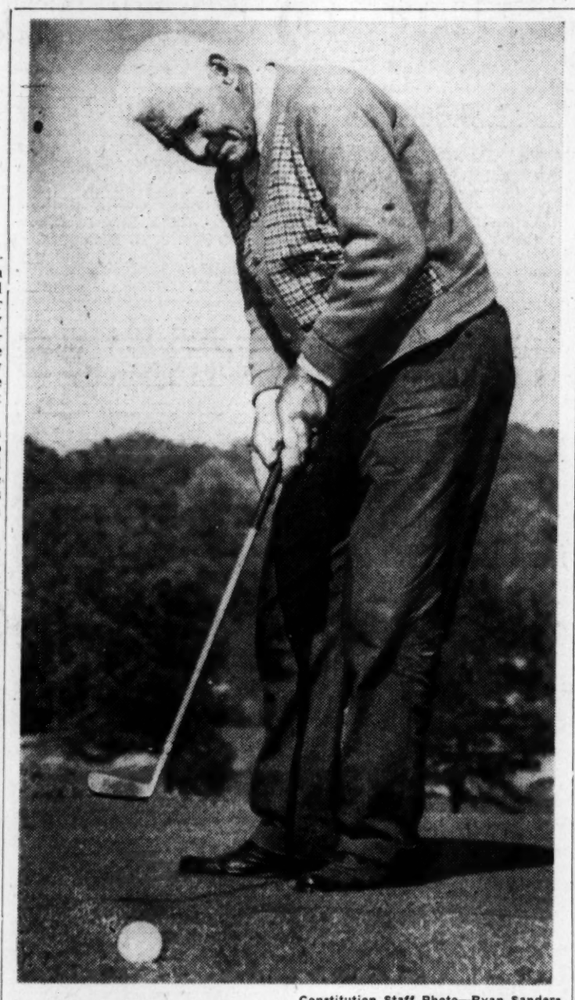

Johnny Carson, of Atlanta Tech High shot a 154.

Columbus, McCallie and Baylor ran in that order for team honors with 641, 643 and 650 points, respectively. Just behind was Richmond Academy with 651.

Bidwill Leaves Estate of $250,000

CHICAGO, April 24—(AP)—Charles W. Bidwill, 51, owner of the Chicago Cardinals, professional football team, left an estate estimated at $250,000 in Illinois assets, a petition filed in probate court said Thursday. Bidwill left no will.

The estimate of assets in Bidwill's estate was conservative because of the nature of the properties, attorneys said.

STILL SINKING HIS SHARE AT 81—W. L. (Uncle Luke) Harrison, who turned 81 this week, gets his putting touch back on the practice green of the Candler Park course while recuperating from a recent illness. Uncle Luke, a retired businessman, long has been known as Atlanta's oldest golfer and caddy. On his 79th birthday he shot a 79 at Candler Park, and on one day last year caddied 54 holes "just for the fun of it."

Detroit Returns Steiner to Atlanta

The fortunes of Atlanta's faltering Crackers took an upswing Thursday with the announcement that Ben Steiner, sharp-hitting second baseman sold on a 30-day trial basis to the Detroit Tigers, would be returned to Atlanta.

General Manager Billy Evans, of the Detroit American League club, wired Earl Mann, President of the Crackers, of their decision to return Steiner and later the two discussed the matter by telephone. Steiner will join the club in Chattanooga Saturday.

The Crackers purchased Steiner during the Winter from Louisville of the American Association, last year's Little World Series champions. Earlier in the year Steiner was up with the Boston Red Sox, holding down third base in the early stages of the 1946 campaign before being shipped to the Louisville farm club.

When the Tigers sought to obtain him the Cracker management turned him loose for a try in the major leagues with a provision that he be returned to Atlanta if he didn't stick with Detroit.

Cracker officials said Steiner probably would take over the keystone position as soon as he arrived. Mike Milosevich, who opened the season there, will remain at shortstop, where he was moved recently. The combination is expected to give the Southern League champions the top second base combination in the league.

In addition, the acquisition of Steiner will add a strong measure of batting punch to the Cracker lineup, a sorely-needed item for the Crackers to run a good race during the season.

Tech High, Lanier Vie For Lead

Lanier and Tech High, currently running one-two in the GIAA baseball standings, will vie for the league lead in Macon today. Coach O. V. Bruner will send either Dave Settle or Bobby Smith to the mound against Bill Story, the Poets' elongated right-hander. The Smithies can oust the defending champs from the top spot with a win.

Jordan and Columbus will meet in Columbus in the only other GIAA Friday fray. Tech High will battle Marist at Piedmont Park; Boys High will be at Columbus High, and Jordan will be at Thomaston against Robert E. Lee in games carded for Saturday.

Unbeaten Decatur will engage winless Commercial High at Grant Park in an NGIC melee at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, and Fulton High will play host to second-place Gainesville at Southbend Park. Fulton trimmed College Park, 7-2, Saturday but fell before West Fulton, 13-12, Wednesday. Gainesville larruped Commercial, 14-2, on Monday in its last outing.

West Fulton will be out of town for a fray with Marietta's Blue Devils at Larry Bell Field, and College Park will be in Canton to take on the currently torrid Greenies, who have won their last three games after dropping their first trio of engagements.

Middleweight Bout on WAGA Tonight

Manhattan's fistic feature tonight is a middleweight clash that brings together Steve Belloise (above) of the Bronx and Johnny Walker, Philadelphia, in a ten-rounder.

A successful exponent of the blitz attack, Belloise has blasted 16 foes to the canvas since returning to ring action shortly over a year ago. He has won 23 in all. The Bronxite had a crack at the 160-lb. title before his Navy enlistment, but was turned back through inexperience. Today Steve is a seasoned socker and expects to gain another chance at the crown.

Walker is a dangerous assignment and has conquered many a title aspirant. The Philadelphian is crafty and cagey. He has beaten such capable battlers as Ossie Harris, Jerry Fiorello, Red Doty, and others.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow, on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WAGA (590 on your dial) at 10 p.m.

Indians Clip Chisox On Pat Seerey's Homer

NEW YORK, April 24—(AP)—Led by big Johnny Mize, who hit three homers, major league batsmen continued their massive production of four-baggers Thursday to swell the total output for both circuits to 84.

The National League clouted seven in three games to run their total to 55, while American Leaguers clubbed three in a similar number of games to increase their number to 29.

TEX HUGHSON
Throttles Yankee Bats

Mize, the hard-hitting first sacker of the New York Giants, slammed Johnny Sain for three homers in a row at Boston, but nevertheless the Giants took a 14-5 lacing from the Braves.

It was the fifth time during his career that Mize has hit three boundary belts, a major-league record. He previously performed the feat twice in 1938 and 1940 while playing for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Walker Cooper also homered for the Giants and Danny Litwhiler, who batted in four runs on four hits, poked one out of the lot for the Braves.

At Pittsburgh, the Chicago Cubs nosed out the Pirates, 6-5, with Don Johnson's single breaking up the game in the eighth inning. Phil Cavarretta homered for the Cubs and Rookie Waldon Westlake for the Bucs.

The defeat cut the Pirates' first-place margin over the Brooklyn Dodgers to a half game as the Brooks downed the Philadelphia Phillies, 2-0, behind Ralph Branca and Hugh Casey. Dixie Walker batted in both runs when he singled with the sacks jammed in the first frame.

Over in the American League, Pat Seerey's round-tripper enabled the Cleveland Indians to defeat the Chicago White Sox, 1-0, and move into a first-place deadlock with the New York Yankees, who dropped a 1-0 tilt to the Boston Red Sox at the Yankee Stadium.

Seerey hit his game-winning drive in the top of the second inning off Johnny Rigney, who went the route for the Pale Hose. Don Black limited the Sox to four hits.

At New York, Tex Hughson shackled the Yanks on two hits, Joe DiMaggio's seventh-inning double and Aaron Robinson's ninth-inning single, while Rookie Frank Shea held the defending champions to three. The Sox scored the lone run of the game in the fifth inning on two walks, a force out and Sam Mele's fly.

In the remaining encounter, the St. Louis Browns trimmed the Detroit Tigers, 6-1, at Briggs Stadium. Al Zarilla and Jeff Heath homered as Jack Kramer limited the Bengals to three hits in posting his and the Browns' second victory of the season.

The Washington Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics were not scheduled and the game between Cincinnati and St. Louis in the Mound City was postponed because of wet grounds.

Torza, Dudley Enter Golf Finals

PINEHURST, N. C., April 24—(AP)—Medalist Felice Torza, of Hartford, Conn., and C. B. Dudley, of Greenville, S. C., who finished one stroke behind him at 73 in the qualifying test, meet Friday in the 36-hole finals of the Forty-Seventh North and South Amateur Golf Championship.

Torza won an easy 7 and 6 semi-final match from George Fulton, Jr., of Roanoke, Va., Thursday.

Dudley overcame a 4-down deficit at the ninth hole to beat Dave Ewell, Jr., of Richmond, Va., 1 up.

Oglethorpe Takes On Georgia's Nine Today

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Oglethorpe University's nine, riding the crest of a five-game winning streak without a loss, will meet its sternest test of the year at Oglethorpe's Hermance Field today when the University of Georgia club furnishes the opposition at 3:30 o'clock. The teams will conclude the series with a game in Athens Saturday.

Coach Swede Phillips' club has amassed 75 hits, an average of 15 per game, in drubbing Georgia Tech's Lawson General Hospital group, 17-4; Ft. McPherson twice, 5-2 and 11-2, and Georgia Vocational School, of Clarksville, twice, 15-1 and 5-1.

Good pitching has been the team's forte to date, Floyd Greer, Bob DeVaney and Jim Hinson allowing a total of only 22 safeties in five outings. Greer, ex-Tech High righthander who has two victories to his credit, will toe the slab here today, and DeVaney, ex-Richmond Academy star, will twirl Saturday in Athens.

Red Ivey, outfielder-catcher, is leading the Petrels at the plate with a .600 plus average.

Coach J. V. Sikes' invaders, with a won five lost eight record against stiffer opposition than the Petrels have faced, have two Atlanta boys in the line-up; Virgil Bartlett, hard-hitting shortstop who did his prepping at West Fulton, and Third Baseman Hoaky Jackson, a Tech High product. Sikes has announced that Bob Still, 17-year-old Florida youth who is regarded as his most promising flinger, will be on the mound this afternoon. Still turned in a nifty relief job against Clemson, in Athens, Monday.

Mobile Sells Patton To Asheville Nine

MOBILE, Ala., April 24—(AP)—Sale of Sam Patton, husky outfielder, to Asheville, N. C., of the Tri-State League, was announced today by President Edgar Allen, of the Mobile Bears.

Patton hit .331 for Asheville last year and .300 for Mobile this season in 10 times at bat.

'COULD KICK US OUT OF EUROPE'

AMVETS' Chief Holds Reds as Deadly Threat

By BILL BORING

A talk with Ray Sawyer, young, hard-hitting Commander of the American Veterans of World War II, leaves you with the impression that the United States could be at war tomorrow.

Sawyer thinks Russia is more a threat than Japan was the day before Pearl Harbor. He believes, further, that the Communist Party in America is "in a conspiracy to overthrow our Government" and has been so successful at it (by infiltration, such as in the transportation industry) that New York, for example, could be taken merely by a telephone call from Joe Stalin.

He thinks that Russia, should the spirit move it, could "kick us out of Europe within 10 days" and that the Soviets definitely are committed to war with us and are following a policy of stalling until "ready to call the tune" as to the time and method of fighting.

His thoughts running along this vein, Sawyer naturally believes that this country should "keep its powder dry," be ready to fight at the drop of a bomb. He likens our present "get tough" policy in in the face of our disarmament to a position of "prodding the Russian bear with an unloaded gun."

Constitution Staff Photo—Ryan Sanders
RAY SAWYER
Fried Chicken at East Point.

"We are weak militarily, and weakness invites attack," he says. "Military preparedness must be the keynote of our national security program. We must have preparedness for peace."

Sawyer, who is a "young man in a hurry," possessed of many abilities, was administrative assistant to John Winant during his New Hampshire governorship, government attorney with State, Treasury and CAB, executive assistant to Surgeon General Parran, of the Public Health Service, and during the war legal officer with the First Troop Carrier Command, executive assistant with the AAF Glider Command and chief of personnel and supply, operations division, Twentieth Air Force.

He was in Atlanta to confer with regional AMVET commanders, talk with Acting Gov. Thompson and dedicate the colors of Boatright-Simpson Post No. 13, of East Point. The post colors were donated by the Bank of Fulton County and the East Point Commercial Bank. The Seventh Army furnished a color guard at the ceremony.

Sawyer, in regard to veteran affairs, believes the Government and public officials should quit talking about bonuses and pensions for veterans and get down to making our economy so workable that veterans can get jobs. He also favors putting through a measure enabling the veteran to obtain seniority on the job for time spent in service. More than bonuses, he says, the veterans want housing "in order to marry and raise families and become a part of the American community."

Sawyer was the guest of Joseph S. Crespi, national AMVETS Vice Commander, at East Point.

Important Role

LOS ANGELES — (INS) — Submarines will play an all-important part in any future atomic war, Read Admiral G. C. Crawford, veteran submarine officer, declared. He said that the submarine can "carry the goods where wanted" and risk the minimum of detection. He also said that it was possible to launch guided missiles from the decks of submarines.

MAYFLOWER MAKES IT!

Zesty Spread For Spring Sandwiches!

Use this zesty spread to fill fancy, green-sprigged sandwich rolls that you can serve at Spring teas or as before-dinner appetizers. Or fill plain, hearty sandwiches with it for the children's lunch. It will soon be a favorite at your house! Just be sure you make it with Mayflower, the Margarine that's extra good, extra fresh . . . because it's made fresh daily! To make the sandwich rolls, let ¼ lb. Mayflower stand until soft. Cream until light and fluffy. Add two 3-oz. cans of Armour Star Deviled Ham Spread and 8 finely-chopped stuffed olives. Remove crusts from bread slices, spread with mixtures and roll up. Decorate ends with parsley sprigs. Makes 18-20 rolls.

The best and nothing but the best is labeled ARMOUR*

Suggested Recipe

COFFEE MARSHMALLOW MOLD

1 lb. marshmallows, diced
1 cup hot, very strong coffee
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Crushed peanut brittle or chopped nuts

Melt marshmallows in hot coffee in top of double boiler over boiling water. Stir and cook these ingredients until the marshmallows are dissolved. Chill the mixture until it is about to set. Fold in whipped cream. Place mixture in oiled ring mold. Chill well. Invert on a plate and cover top with crushed peanut brittle or chopped nuts, if desired. Serves 6.
